Offers Something for Everyone...

Brownfields '96, the most comprehensive Brownfields event in the United States, is designed for those interested in the assessment, cleanup, redevelopment, financing, and revitalization of brownfields communities.

This cutting-edge forum will bring together key experts from all levels of government, business, finance, and local communities to share ideas and experiences in cleanup and redevelopment of brownfields.

Learn from cleanup experts, pilot cities funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Brownfields Program, representatives of affected communities, city leaders, representatives of business and financial institutions, and more.

Hear the latest policy initiatives from the White House, federal agencies and key state and local officials about the most innovative approaches to the cleanup and redevelopment of brownfields.

See the most recent technology
