

VI. REPORTING RESULTS

States are required to submit their water quality report (integrated or separate 303(d) and 305(b)) to EPA by April 1, 2006. At this time, states should also submit their assessment results electronically in the ADB or compatible data management system along with georeferencing information. The EPA regional offices will provide states in their regions with the appropriate contact information for submitting both the water quality report and electronic assessment results.

As part of the review of the submittals, the EPA regional offices will coordinate with the states to make revisions to (if necessary) and finalize the electronic assessment results. The EPA regional offices will provide the electronic assessment results to EPA headquarters when the results are ready to be incorporated into the National Assessment Database (NAD).
