Jan Pickrel is EPA's National Pretreatment Program Coordinator in the Water Permits Division of the Office of Wastewater Management (OWM) as well as the OWM Climate Change coordinator. She coordinates the implementation issues regarding industrial wastewater permits and the development of technology-based effluent guidelines and categorical standards with EPA's Office of Science and Technology and other EPA offices. She has taught numerous intensive courses and webinars on the pretreatment program across the nation and spoken at many other venues on the development and implementation of pretreatment programs and the regulation of industrial wastewater discharges.

Prior to coming to EPA's Office of Wastewater Management in 1997, Jan worked for 13 years at Virginia Department of Environmental Quality's Northern Virginia Regional Office, where she served as the Pretreatment Coordinator and Senior Environmental Engineer with the region's VPDES Program. During her tenure at VDEQ, she also served as the Chief Regional Geologist and has extensive experience in land application of biosolids, ground water and surface water investigations, and oil spill remediation efforts.

Ms. Pickrel received her B.S. in Geology from the College of William and Mary and a Masters of Engineering Administration from George Washington University.
