I am writing to voice my support for the EPA's work in documenting greenhouse gas sources and sinks in the United States. We need to sustain this record of US emissions so that our society has accurate information on both greenhouse gas emissions and efforts to reduce those emissions. By making this inventory publicly available, the EPA provides an invaluable service to policymakers at all levels of government, to leaders in industry and business, and to individual citizens. Climate change is a threat to all Americans - to our public health and well-being, our food and water security, and our economic growth. EPA should continue this critical work on the greenhouse gas inventory so that we have the knowledge we need to move forward in addressing climate change.
