Kell and Nick,
I thought the background on the site and the settlement agreement the parties had discussed earlier would be helpful. This is the Settlement Position paper which has already been shared with EPA/DOJ at the last meeting held. Ex. 7(A)

Woodbrook Road Site Background

- TRC is one of the top national environmental consulting firms (4000+ employees) with a major specialty in environmental remediation (650+ employees devoted to it). TRC has become a leader in the field of “fixed-price remediation” where TRC cleans up the site for a fee and with environmental insurance backstopping the transaction.
- TRC’s client at the Woodbrook Road Superfund site (Woodbrook Road site) in New Jersey is, Texas Eastern Terminal Company (TETCO), an Enbridge affiliate. Because TRC has entered into a fixed-price agreement for the site, TRC’s interests are on the line. EPA Region 2 is the project lead at this site (as opposed to the State of New Jersey).
- TRC with its depth of experience in this field has never before had to reach out to EPA management to discuss the process of a Superfund remediation until now. We are here because of the Administrator’s prioritizing the clean-up of these sites in a more effective, efficient and expeditious manner. The Woodbrook Road site, discussed below, is a poster child for what the Task Force report proposes to change and streamline.
- TETCO acquired the site, which still remains vacant land today in 1971/72 and had no knowledge of pollution at the time of purchase, never utilized or conducted business at the site and did not contribute in any way to the contamination on the property.
- In spite of having no responsibility for the contamination at the site, once the PCB contamination was identified in 2000, TETCO/TRC acted in good faith and voluntarily stepped up in 2003 and agreed to and bore the entire cost of over $7.2 million (excluding significant legal/transaction costs) to conduct PCB capacitor removal actions and fund the RI/FS under a Consent Order with EPA, which was completed 10 years later in 2013.
- The party that manufactured the PCB capacitors found on the Woodbrook Road site in South Plainfield was Cornell Dubilier Electronics Corporation (CDE). CDE manufactured capacitors containing PCB’s at a related Superfund site in South Plainfield, less than a mile away. CDE is an existing, solvent company with substantial assets and possibly insurance coverage that would apply to Woodbrook Road.
- Since the completion of Consent Order requirements, EPA Region 2 issued a ROD selecting a remedy (Alternative 6), which is greater than five times more costly of the two remedies under consideration with the greatest level of disturbance, is inconsistent with other precedent in the Region and nationally, and has the longest lead time. The Region, bowing to pressure from a local NGO, selected a remedy calling for complete removal of the contamination despite the fact there is no surface or groundwater contamination after 70 years and that the less costly capping remedy (Alternative 4) was found by EPA to be protective of human health and the environment. In addition, the Region ignored the Borough of South Plainfield’s request for the selection of the Alternative 4 capping remedy even though capping containment remedies have been used by EPA countless times for low threat PCB wastes. As TRC has previously demonstrated, the capping remedy is consistent with all of the Superfund remedy selection criteria.

- EPA suggested that one of the reasons it selected the Alternative 6 removal remedy was that it believed that the cost would go down following its design of the remedy. However, EPA recently completed its design and has advised TRC that the cost has nearly doubled since the agency now intends to build a rail spur to transport excavated material. This will cause impact to additional wetlands. Instead of revisiting the more cost-effective Alternative 4 remedy, the Region appears intent on moving forward with Alternative 6. This refusal to revisit the ROD is itself inconsistent with the Task Force Report.
- Region 2's treatment of TETCO/TRC at this site sets a terrible precedent and sends a chilling message to other potentially responsible parties considering voluntarily assuming cleanup responsibilities. By stepping up and assuming responsibility when it could have denied any liability, TETCO/TRC has paid dearly for being a good corporate citizen. It has paid over $7.2 million dollars to date (excluding legal/transaction costs) and is being threatened with additional liabilities of tens of millions more for a remedy that is not needed to meet the environmental goals for the site.
- EPA could/should have included the Woodbrook Road site as part of the main CDE site or more vigorously pursued CDE which has remained recalcitrant. As a landowner with no responsibility for the contamination on the site, companies are typically assessed a 5 or 10% share of liability. In fact, at the related CDE site less than one mile from the Woodbrook Road site, the owner was assessed less than a 5% share of the overall liability. TETCO/TRC has already paid far in excess of a 10% share even if the most costly remedy is eventually implemented.
- EPA/DOJ and TRC were engaged in meaningful settlement discussions until negotiations stalled in March 2015 while EPA completed its design of the remedy. The time has come to recognize that TETCO/TRC has acted as a good corporate citizen and has paid far in excess of its fair share at this site. EPA should complete the negotiation of a final cash-out settlement that recognizes TETCO/TRC's contributions to date and fully resolves its liability at the site.

Nick,
Here is the email submittal below of the letter attached to the Acting Regional Administrator on the Woodbrook Road site. Also please find Mr. Faecher and Mr. Vincze's v cards.

Thank you all again for taking the time to listen to our story. We hope that this issue can be resolved for all stakeholders that act in good faith (especially when they are innocent parties), not just us, but very thankful you all will look into our good faith efforts on it for us.

Please let me know if I can do anything to assist on this or any other issue.

Best,
Denise

Dear Kell,

I am writing to request a meeting in January with you and your team on behalf of Christopher Vincze, CEO and Marc Faecher Sr. VP, Environmental of TRC Corporation.

After reading the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Report of the Superfund Task Force, its recommendations and commitment to stakeholder's engagement, TRC believes it is critical to share their experiences as a stakeholder with the previous administration in voluntarily addressing Superfund issues. At least one of their ongoing projects is the poster child of what the report proposes to change and streamline.

The Administrator and you will probably remember TRC, as they purchased Wilbros Professional Services located in Tulsa, in January of 2016, and the Administrator attended the ribbon cutting with local officials.

We appreciate the opportunity to share our story,

Best,
Denise

Environmental Protection Agency

Dear Kel,

Thanks very much for taking the time with Patrick and Nick to hear our story about Verizon in Hicksville. From the beginning, any and all pollution was created at the behest of the United States Government, and while Verizon has picked up the tab for much of the cleanup, it is high time that the government resumes its responsibility and takes over the project in full.

DOJ and the Corps are in favor of the resolution that we presented. It's our strong hope that the EPA will agree.

Thank you again for your time.

Sincerely,

Bob Livingston

I hope you are doing well. I have appreciated the Task force recommendations and the administrator's focus on this issue. Is there any further information on:

- The numerous references to written agency directives on the various recommendations
- The list of NPL sites to target for completion,
- Has there been any movement on the re-use of Prospective purchaser agreements (great idea) and the revised model comfort letter (redevelopment is a central portion of my practice and this would be huge), and
- Who will be asked to be on the advisory committee discussed in recommendation 42

Thanks again for your time and work on this matter.

Albert

I appreciated speaking with you last week. As you may recall, I mentioned that one of the things I believe would make CERCLA more efficient would be the ability to get to a remedy decision quicker. I remain convinced that this is not a statutory amendment but rather a rule modification. One possible avenue is the use of a study focused solely on limited remedial alternatives where the remedy is obvious perhaps because (i) there are limited options or (ii) certain facts dictate an obvious solution. This concept already exists within EPA guidance. "Site-specific data needs, the evaluation of alternatives, and the documentation of the selected remedy should reflect the scope and complexity of the site problems being addressed." 40 C.F.R. § 300.430(a)(1)(ii)(C). Additionally, EPA has indicated that "[a] more streamlined analysis during an RI/FS may be particularly appropriate" when site problems are straightforward; when ARARs, guidance or program precedent indicate a limited range of appropriate response alternatives; and when many alternatives are clearly impracticable due to severe implementability problems or prohibitive costs. 55 Fed. Reg. 8704.

This is often referred to as a focused Remedial Investigation (RI), focused Feasibility Study (FS), or the like; however, I do not believe that the concept of a focused RI or FS currently exists in the NCP or other rules and therefore lacks a clear definition. The possibility of performing a focused RI or FS where the parties would agree to and identify the remedial action alternatives to be considered for the site and then all subsequent analysis would focus on just those alternatives, could improve efficiency. For example the procedure would allow the parties to eliminate the development and screening of all remedial alternatives, or, in the RI scenario, shorten data gathering needs and potentially report preparation.

The devil is always in the details, but I believe this concept is valid.

Hello Denise, I am following up on the below email to Nick. I have been in telephone contact with Marc Faecher several times. The status now is that the Region was waiting on confirmation from the state to begin discussions that you requested. That has now been received. We are still awaiting confirmation from DOJ. Once received, I or the Region will propose some type of discussion format to see if we can resolve the differences remaining. Please call or email if you have any questions. Thanks.

Dear Kell,

I am writing to request a meeting in January with you and your team on behalf of Christopher Vincze, CEO and Marc Faecher Sr. VP, Environmental of TRC Corporation.

After reading the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Report of the Superfund Task Force, its recommendations and commitment to stakeholder's engagement, TRC believes it is critical to share their experiences as a stakeholder with the previous administration in voluntarily addressing Superfund issues. At least one of their ongoing projects is the poster child of what the report proposes to change and streamline.

The Administrator and you will probably remember TRC, as they purchased Wilbros Professional Services located in Tulsa, in January of 2016, and the Administrator attended the ribbon cutting with local officials.

We appreciate the opportunity to share our story,

Best,
Denise

Mr. Kelly, Thanks very much for your call. I apologize for our indecipherable phone system.

I'm asking Marjory Strayer to give you a call in hopes she will help bring this Hicksville issue to a successful conclusion.

Again, many thanks!
