Total	54 nonattainment areas 23 states with one or more nonattainment area District of Columbia - nonattainment 2 separate areas of Indian country are nonattainment		187 whole nonattainment counties and county equivalents 36 partial nonattainment counties (parts of 6 counties are included in multiple areas - these are counted only once.) 2 separate areas of Indian County are nonattainment

<sup>2</sup> Connecticut recommended the entire northeast region of the country be included in a single nonattainment area or, as alternatives, that the Philadelphia and New York metropolitan areas be merged into a single nonattainment area, or that the state be divided into two nonattainment areas as shown in this table.

<sup>3</sup> Delaware recommended a mega-area including the states of Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin or, as an alternative, New Castle County as a single-county nonattainment area, not part of the Philadelphia-Wilmington-Atlantic City, PA-NJ-MD-DE area.

<sup>6</sup> EPA intends to designate the Meadowbrook parcel as nonattainment along with the surrounding state area.

<sup>7</sup> If EPA approves Pennsylvania's exceptional events request for violating monitors in Berks and Lebanon Counties, the monitors would be attaining. In that case, EPA would revise its intended designations for the Harrisburg-York-Lebanon-Lancaster, PA and the Reading, PA nonattainment areas to be attainment/unclassifiable, with the exception of York County. A York County monitor has incomplete air quality monitoring data, therefore, EPA would revise its intended designation for York County to be unclassifiable.

<sup>8</sup> The EPA intends to designate all or portions of Bexar County, Texas as, at best, Unclassifiable.
