It supports a full spectrum of BI use cases, including self-service visualization for everyone, centrally deployed guided analytics apps and dashboards, embedded analytics, and reporting, all within a governed framework that offers enterprise scalability and trust for IT.  Built on the QIX Associative Data Indexing engine, Qlik Sense allows people to probe all the possible associations that exist in their data, across all their data sources, to see the whole story instead of just the partial views offered by query-based or hierarchical tools.  EPA staff will use Qlik Sense to produce self-serve data visualizations and dashboards for visual analysis and data/information presentation. 						The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Region 6, has a requirement for high density mobile shelving (HDMS) systems for its new Regional Headquarters (HQ), with occupancy planned for February of 2019. The new Region 6 HQ will be located in Renaissance Tower at 1201 Elm Street, Dallas, Texas 75270. The Renaissance Tower Building is a 30 year old, 54 story office building with an adjacent, multi-level parking garage.  The EPA maintains a significant inventory of records, as required by law and for its day-to-day operations. It will have record storage areas in its regional office that are to be located on floors 3 and 4 of the Renaissance Tower. An HDMS system is planned for the consolidated Regional Record Center (RRC) located on the west side of the 3rd floor and a small library component on the east side (See Exhibit 3). The RRC is proposed to have about 2,540 square feet of HDMS footprint with about 12,300 linear feet of shelving. The library component will have about 90 square feet of footprint with 350 linear feet of shelving. On the 4th floor, the Superfund Records Management (SRM) is planned on the north side. The estimated HDMS footprint of the SRM is	Delivery / Task Order	Williams, Houston	Lane, Leticia		Small

All the centralized Record Centers use EPA supplied laptop computers (PCs), with the exception of the assistive technology computer PC (shall be supplied by the Contractor), and barcode scanners that use an existing records tracking program to track all records stored in these Record Centers. All files are bar coded and the records are checked in and out using a bar code reader and Versatile Enterprise software. This Region uses imaging to provide Regional staff the opportunity to view their files at their desk through their PCs and converting paper only Vital Records to digital format. These vital records are scanned by contracted staff and stored in the eVital Records folders on the Region 6 Local Area Network (LAN) and at our Continuity of Operations (COOP) site, so periodic visits to the COOP are required.
