Disposition Instructions:

Item a: Nonrecord copy

- Disposable
  - Close when obsolete, superseded or no longer needed for reference.
  - Destroy immediately after file closure.

Guidance:

Sensitive information - These records may contain sensitive information (e.g., controlled unclassified information (CUI) such as personally identifiable information (PII)) – Records containing CUI must be appropriately managed, safeguarded, and when appropriate, destroyed with caution, for paper records by shredding or pulping and for electronic records deleted at final disposition to protect confidentiality.

Determining record value - Consideration should be given to determining the record value of materials such as working papers, drafts, and notes which document an activity up to the point in time when those materials are created. Until a subsequent activity occurs which causes them to become superseded or obsolete, the materials could warrant record status and be appropriate for preservation. Designating materials as nonrecords in anticipation of their being superseded or obsolete, rather than at the point when they are actually superseded or obsolete, can be premature in some instances. When it is difficult to decide whether certain materials are records or nonrecords, they should be treated as records.
Records collected from abandoned sites (e.g., bankrupt companies, abandoned offices) by EPA as part of site investigations or other activities that are not necessary for the conduct of Agency business and which have no informational value will be considered nonrecords. If regulated entities submit material, either accidentally or intentionally, that is not necessary for the conduct of Agency business, it will also be considered nonrecord material.

Access restrictions - Nonrecord materials should not contain any security classified or administratively controlled information.

Removal of nonrecords from the Agency - Nonrecord materials should not be removed from the Agency except with the Agency's approval.

Short-term documentary materials - Nonrecords, along with personal papers, and short-term records, comprise a broad category of materials that are not needed as part of the long-term documentation of Agency activities. Personal Papers are covered by EPA 0999. Examples of short-term records include transitory files such as suspense files and mailing list source records covered by schedule 1006, item d.

Convenience copies of records should be destroyed when the records are destroyed, or sooner if no longer needed for reference purposes.

Schedule change history - A number of program-specific reference files formerly listed individually have been incorporated into this general Agency-wide item. See Previous NARA Disposal Authority below for a list of superseded schedules. This schedule incorporates and replaces EPA 0733 - News Clippings. Copies of news clippings which have documentary or evidential value may be incorporated into other records series (e.g., Superfund site files), and are to be disposed of in accordance with the disposition instructions for the related series.

Reasons for Disposition:

The following change was made in the 11/30/2019 version:

- Added guidance on handling sensitive information (e.g., controlled unclassified information (CUI)).

The following change was made in the 07/31/2015 version:

- Added information about copies of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives to the Description.

The following change was made in the 02/28/2014 version:

- Updated cross references in guidance.

The following change was made in the 03/31/2008 version:
• Revised guidance to include records: (1) collected from abandoned sites and (2) submitted by regulated entities that are not necessary for the conduct of Agency business.

Nonrecord materials are identified in 44 U.S.C. Section 3301 and 36 CFR Section 1220.14. NARA guidance says: "Nonrecord materials should be destroyed when no longer needed for reference." NARA determined copies of news clippings are nonrecord materials as part of N1-412-96-2.

The Integrated Compliance Information System (ICIS) is the core information management system supporting the enforcement and compliance operations of the Office of Enforcement and Compliance Assurance (OECA). In addition, ICIS has replaced several older legacy programmatic systems, including the Permit Compliance System (PCS) which supported the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) program, and the Air Facility System (AFS) which supported the Clean Air Act (CAA) Stationary Source program. ICIS is used for tracking federal enforcement and compliance, CAA, and NPDES activities performed by the EPA headquarters, regional offices, states, and local agency offices. Selected information in ICIS is made available to the public through the Enforcement and Compliance History Online (ECHO) system. It also includes information on Tribal lands where enforcement activities may occur.

Data in the system includes detailed facility information and compliance activities such as compliance monitoring, compliance determination, deficiencies, incident descriptions, and enforcement descriptions. Incident descriptions include required notifications and citizen tips or complaints, enforcement actions, and reports. Enforcement descriptions include case initiations, settlement information, benefits, and follow-up activities resulting from the enforcement action. Additional information for the NPDES program includes: Permit data, Effluent Limits, and Discharge Monitoring Report (DMR) data. Additional information for the CAA program includes: Stack Tests, Title V Annual Compliance Certifications, Compliance Monitoring Strategy status, and Alleged Violation Files. The NPDES and CAA information is entered by state and local agencies as well as by EPA. Federal enforcement and compliance data is entered by EPA headquarters and regional office attorneys and engineers from paper legal documents, the Case Conclusion Data Sheets, and inspection reports. Much of the information from state and local agencies is submitted electronically from external systems using standardized formats via the Exchange Network and EPA's Central Data Exchange (CDX). ICIS also includes extensive reporting capabilities to extract and display the desired information. Some NPDES-regulated entities submit electronic data to ICIS via the EPA CDX on an as-needed basis according to their permit requirements.

Certain data within ICIS are made available to other EPA systems, including the Facility Registry System (FRS) and ECHO, which are scheduled separately.

Title: Clean Air Markets Division Business System (CAMDBS)

Program: Air

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-05-8

Description:

The Clean Air Markets Division Business System (CAMDBS) is a set of interrelated systems operating against a single integrated database in the market-based emissions trading program, i.e., the Acid Rain Program and the SIP Call/126 program for ozone transport. It allows regulated entities to perform various reporting tasks directly online. CAMDBS streamlines certain business functions which were previously distributed redundantly in a variety of legacy systems. One of the main subsystems of CAMDBS is the Source Management System (SMS) which consolidates the numerous separate systems into a single inventory of related information. Other subsystems include: Allowance Management System (AMS); Emissions Collection and Monitoring Plan System (ECMPS), Compliance and Permit Tracking System (CPTS), and CAMD System Administration (CSA).

CAMDBS replaces the following paper forms: allowance transfer form, submission of forms identifying responsible parties, annual compliance forms, retired unit exemption forms and new unit exemption forms. It also replaces the following legacy systems: the Allowance Tracking System (ATS), the Emissions Tracking System (ETS), and the NOx Allowance Tracking System (NATS).

The System for Risk Management Plans (SRMP) is a major application system hosted within the EPA Central Data Exchange (CDX). SRMP is composed of multiple subsystems that process, display, maintain, and report risk management plan information submitted by facilities in accordance with the Clean Air Act (CAA), Section 112(r). RMP regulated facilities are to develop risk management programs which will prevent and minimize consequences of accidental releases of certain hazardous chemicals that could harm public health and the environment.

Facilities submit RMPs every five years, or more frequently per 40 CFR Part 68. RMPs consist of the submitter's registration; an executive summary providing a description of the submitter's activities as they relate to covered processes and program elements; graphics files that supplement required textual information; and data elements that address compliance with each of the rule elements.

The SRMP major application system is comprised of the following subsystems.

RMP*eSubmit online software enables facilities to prepare, validate, certify, and submit RMPs to EPA in a secure, electronic format. This application may also be used by the RMP Reporting Center to electronically enter RMPs that were submitted by facilities to EPA in paper format and to generate associated notification letters.

RMP*Administration includes the database in which RMPs are stored and various utilities for: entering tracking information for RMP-related mail, maintaining RMP Datasets, maintaining users who may download the datasets via RMP Download Dataset; maintaining RMP*Info users, generating management reports, maintaining EPA Facility IDs, and de-registering facilities and marking facilities administratively closed.
RMP*Info provides authorized users (known as "covered persons") with the ability to query, view, and print RMPs and generate RMP-related reports. A non-sensitive version of the application (RMP*Info) allows users to view RMP data with the sensitive Offsite Consequence Analysis (OCA) data redacted. RMP*Info OCA allows covered persons to view all RMP data fields.

RMP*Review enables users to analyze complete RMPs including the processing data added at the RMP Reporting Center and audit and user-defined-field data that they enter. Non-covered persons can use RMP*Review with the sensitive data omitted. RMP*Review is the only RMP subsystem that is still implemented as a standalone desktop application (MS Access).

RMP*Comp is used by facilities to calculate worse case and alternative release scenarios for flammable and toxic substances. This application is publicly accessible without a login.

RMP Download Dataset is used by covered persons to electronically download RMP Datasets. These datasets may be viewed by users using MS Access or the RMP*Review application.

RMPREPORT is a data flow that was created in 2015 to support secure RMP data exchange to EPA-approved nodes. This flow was deployed to the production environment in the summer of 2015.

The RMPs as originally submitted to EPA and records for carrying out the RMP program by the implementing agencies are scheduled separately. Electronic copies of submitted RMP information (including all RMP sections, the Executive Summary, and graphics) are maintained in the RMP*Administration database.

Output and reports from the system are used by EPA, other federal agencies, states and local government officials, including emergency personnel, industry, academia, the media, and the public. EPA uses the data for risk assessment, compliance, emergency response, analysis of national trends in accident prevention and chemical process safety, vulnerability analysis, and related activities. Other federal agencies, as well as state and local governments, have turned to the database for counterterrorism analysis and other activities.

Title: Environmental Review Tracking System (ERP/ERTS)

Program: Federal Activities

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-94-2/9

Description:

The Environmental Review Tracking System is a central data repository for Environmental Impact Statements (EIS) prepared pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act. The Council on Environmental Quality requires the Agency to maintain the system and publish weekly a notice of available EIS's in the Federal Register. Under Section 309 of the Clean Air Act, EPA is required to review all EIS's and other designated Federal actions and to publish in the Federal Register any project determined to be environmentally unsatisfactory. The system is a relatively simple data entry and retrieval application.

Title: Reasonable Accommodation Request Records

Program: Personnel

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 403 - Human Resources Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

• General Records Schedule 1/24

Description:

Contains information created and maintained while receiving, coordinating, reviewing, processing, approving, and reporting requests for reasonable accommodation from federal employees and applicants under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and Executive Order 13164. A reasonable accommodation is a change in the work environment or in the way things are customarily done that would enable an individual with a disability to enjoy equal employment opportunities. The three categories of reasonable accommodation are:

Modification or adjustments to a job application process to permit an individual with a disability to be considered for a job, such as providing application forms in large print or Braille;

Modifications or adjustments necessary to enable a qualified individual with a disability to perform essential functions of the job, such as providing sign language interpreters; and

Modifications or adjustments that enable employees with disabilities to enjoy equal benefits and privileges of employment, such as removing physical barriers in an office or cafeteria.

This includes all requests for reasonable accommodation and/or assistive technology devices and services offered through the agency or the Computer/Electronic Accommodation Program (CAP) that are made by or on behalf of applicants, current or former employees. Also includes medical records, supporting notes and documentation, as well as procedures and records related to processing, deciding, implementing, and tracking requests for reasonable accommodation(s).

Disposition Instructions:

Item a: General files
Includes Agency-wide and departmental procedures for receiving, processing, and appealing requests for reasonable accommodation by employees and applicants. Files may include, but are not limited to, instructions, directives, notices, forms, timetables and guidelines for requesting, processing and approving requests and for appealing decisions for reasonable accommodation. Also includes records notifying the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), the agency's collective bargaining representative(s) and the agency's EEO office of the agency's reasonable accommodation request and processing procedures as well as modifications to established procedures.

NARA Disposal Authority: General Records Schedule 1/24a

- Disposable
- Destroy 3 years after supercession or when no longer needed for reference whichever is later.

Item b: Employee case files

Includes individual employee files that are created, received, and maintained by EEO reasonable accommodation or diversity/disability program or employee relations coordinators, immediate supervisors, CAP administrator, or HR specialists containing records of requests for reasonable accommodation and/or assistive technology devices and services through the agency or CAP that have been requested for or by an employee. This series also includes, but is not limited to, request approvals and denials, notice of procedures for informal dispute resolution or appeal processes, forms, correspondence, e-mails, records of oral conversations, medical documentation, and notes.

NARA Disposal Authority: General Records Schedule 1/24b

- Disposable
- Destroy 3 years after employee separation from the agency or all appeals are concluded whichever is later.

Item c: Supplemental files

Includes records created, received, and maintained by EEO reasonable accommodation or diversity/disability program or employee relation coordinators, while advising on, implementing or appealing requests for or from an individual employee for reasonable accommodation. Some requests may involve HR matters, including but not limited to changes in duties, reassignments, leave usage, and performance issues. Files may include, but are not limited to, policy guidance, resource information about accommodation providers, forms, e-mails, notes.

NARA Disposal Authority: General Records Schedule 1/24c

- Disposable
- Destroy 3 years after end of fiscal year in which accommodation is decided or all appeals are concluded, whichever is later.
Item d: Tracking system

Includes records and data created, received, and maintained for purposes of tracking agency compliance with Executive Order 13164 and EEOC guidance.

NARA Disposal Authority: General Records Schedule 1/24d

- Disposable
- Destroy 3 years after compliance report is filed or when no longer needed for reference.

Guidance:

Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.

Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., confidential business information (CBI), personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

Items b and c, employee case files and supplemental files are not part of an employee's Official Personnel File (OPF) or part of a supervisor's unofficial personnel file.

Medical information, when necessary to be obtained to process a reasonable accommodation request, must be kept confidential. The EPA Order and Procedures for Reasonable Accommodation require the national reasonable accommodation coordinator (NRAC) to maintain any and all medical information obtained by the Agency in connection with reasonable accommodation requests. Although local office reasonable accommodation coordinators (LORACs) may need access to medical information in order for them to process a request for reasonable accommodation, at the conclusion of the process all medical information is transferred to the NRAC to maintain. This means if someone other than the NRAC obtains confidential information during the reasonable accommodation process, it must be transferred to the NRAC in sealed confidential envelopes. The information is maintained in separate files and kept in locked cabinets in the NRAC's office.
Reasons for Disposition:

Conforms with NARA's General Records Schedule 1, item 24.

Title: Correspondence Management System (CMS)

Program: All Programs

Applicability: Headquarters

Function: 404 - Technology Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-07-37

Description:

The Correspondence Management System (CMS) is an electronic document management system that captures, stores, routes, and tracks correspondence, responses, and supporting documents. The system is available for use Agency-wide. Documents are either scanned or keyed into the system and routed through the review and approval process. The system has predefined templates for responses and can import documents from other databases. After signature, the final signed document is scanned into the system.

All data from the predecessor system, National Correspondence Tracking and Information Management System (NCTIMS), was migrated to CMS in October 2004.

Disposition Instructions:

Item a: (Reserved)

Item b: (Reserved)

Item c: Electronic data

This item is to be used only by the Office of the Administrator, Office of the Executive Secretariat at Headquarters.

NARA Disposal Authority: N1-412-07-37c

- Disposable
  - Follow the disposition instructions in the applicable records schedule.

Item d: (Reserved)
Item e: (Reserved)

Guidance:

Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in electronic format only, and is not media neutral. The electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.

Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

CMS is not a recordkeeping system. However, since it interfaces with EPA's electronic recordkeeping system (ECMS), retention is managed via ECMS and paper copies may be destroyed after they have been placed into CMS and checked for quality. Records placed into CMS and ECMS are covered by their specific records schedules and not this schedule. For example, controlled correspondence for senior officials is covered by schedule 1051, and controlled correspondence for employees other than senior officials and general correspondence is covered by schedule 1006.

Electronic software program - The electronic software program, formerly item a, is to be kept as long as needed to ensure access to, and use of, the electronic records throughout the authorized retention period. The electronic software program is covered by schedule 1012 item e.

Input - Input, formerly item b, is covered by schedule 1012 item e.

Output and reports - For disposition of output and reports, formerly item d, refer to the records schedule for the activity supported by the output and reports. Follow the disposition instructions for the applicable records schedule item. If more than one records schedule or item applies, follow the disposition instructions with the later dates.

System documentation - System documentation, including system development documentation, formerly item e, refers to those records necessary to document how the system captures, manipulates, and outputs data. Disposition of system documentation is covered by schedule 1012 item e.

Reasons for Disposition:

The following changes were made in the 05/31/2017 version:

- Corrected applicability from Agency-wide to Headquarters.
- Deleted items a, b, d, and e which are covered by other schedules.
• Updated guidance and cross references.

The following change was made in the 01/31/2011 version:

• Updated guidance.

The following changes were made in the 09/30/2010 version:

• Revised guidance to include statement about records schedules for records placed into CMS.
• Updated contact information.

The following change was made in the 10/31/2008 version:

• Revised disposition instructions for item e.

The following changes were made in the 04/30/2008 version:

• Added applicability to disposition items a, c and e.
• Revised disposition instructions for items b and e.

CMS helps EPA meet several GPRA goals such as timely availability of information. Disposition of the data is based on the approved schedules related to the individual document created or entered into the system.

Includes a broad range of primarily PC-based systems used to provide ready, user friendly, access to frequently used information. Information may be drawn from other Agency databases, commercially available databases, Agency records, publicly available sources, or a combination of sources. Also includes metadata repositories.

Information is brought together to simplify access and provide specialized support for specific information needs. In no case is the system (a) required by law, (b) necessary to administer a program, or (c) necessary to document program activity. If the information in the system is used for any of the activities a - c above, an information system (automated or manual) is maintained separately to satisfy those requirements. If the system is used as a finding aid to records, it is disposable under either an Agency approved schedule or NARA's General Records Schedules (GRS).

Title: Information Tracking Systems

Program: All Programs

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 305 - Public Affairs

NARA Disposal Authority:

- DAA-GRS-2013-0002-0016

Description:

Consists of a broad range of paper and electronic systems used to track the processing of permits, applications, reports, approvals, and other actions relating to records that are disposable under NARA’s General Records Schedules (GRS) or an approved Agency records schedule.

Disposition Instructions:

Item a: Record copy

Includes tracking and control records used to provide access to and control of records authorized for destruction by the GRS or a NARA-approved records schedule, including indexes, lists, registers, inventories, and logs.

Excludes records containing abstracts of records content or other information that can be used as an information source apart from the related records which are covered by the schedules for the content (e.g., enforcement, permits).

NARA Disposal Authority: DAA-GRS-2013-0002-0016

- Disposable
  - Close when no longer needed for current agency business.
  - Destroy immediately after file closure.

Guidance:

Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site.

Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., confidential business information (CBI), personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

For electronic tracking systems, the disposition instructions in this schedule apply to the electronic data. The disposition instructions are to be applied when the system is no longer needed to conduct Agency business.

Electronic software program - The electronic software program is to be kept as long as needed to ensure access to, and use of, the electronic records throughout the authorized retention period to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. NARA regulations require the electronic records be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and meet NARA-approved disposition. The electronic software program is covered by schedule 1012, item e.

Input - Input for the system is covered by schedule 1012, item e.

Output and reports - For disposition of output and reports, refer to the records schedule for the activity supported by the output and reports. Follow the disposition instructions for the applicable records schedule item. If more than one records schedule or item applies, follow the disposition instructions with the longer retention period.

System documentation - System documentation, including system development documentation, is covered by EPA 1012, item e.

Guidance:
Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in electronic format only, and is not media neutral. The electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012 Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site [http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html].

Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., confidential business information (CBI), personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

Substantive information which meets the definition of an Agency record and is disseminated via a bulletin board or other on-line system must be documented in an Agency recordkeeping system and retained in accordance with approved records schedules. If the bulletin board information is unique and not documented elsewhere, a separate records schedule is required.

Electronic software program - The electronic software program is to be kept as long as needed to ensure access to, and use of, the electronic records throughout the authorized retention period to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. NARA regulations require the electronic records be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and meet NARA-approved disposition. The electronic software program is covered by schedule 1012, item e.

Input - Input for the system is covered by schedule 1012, item e.

Output and reports - For disposition of output and reports, refer to the records schedule for the activity supported by the output and reports. Follow the disposition instructions for the applicable records schedule item. If more than one records schedule or item applies, follow the disposition instructions with the later dates.

NARA Disposal Authority: Varies

- Varies
- Follow the disposition instructions for the applicable records schedule. If not covered by existing schedules, contact the National Records Management Program (NRMP) to develop a new one.

Guidance:

Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.

Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., confidential business information (CBI), personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

Web content

- Web content records documenting EPA's operations, decisions, and actions that are needed to protect the legal and financial rights of the government and the public must be captured in a recordkeeping system and retained in accordance with the applicable records schedules. If the Web content records are unique and not covered by existing schedules, program offices must contact the NRMP to prepare a records schedule. Additional guidance on managing Web records is available at: http://intranet.epa.gov/records/faqs/webwikiblogrecords.html.
- Organizations need to pay particular attention to Web content with potential regulatory, enforcement or other legal impact, as well as events of historical significance (e.g., World Trade Center, Hurricane Katrina). For example, if an organization is offering guidance to the regulated community, it needs to retain a complete record in its recordkeeping system of what that guidance was, how long it was posted and URLs referenced by hyperlinks.
- Changes to the Web content records, such as major additions or deletions that might affect decisions or actions by the public or regulated community are covered under item d or e. Documentation on minor editorial or non-substantive changes (e.g., correcting typographical errors) may not need to be kept, depending upon a risk analysis. More information on assessing records management risks associated with Web sites can be found in NARA's guidance at: http://www.archives.gov/records-mgmt/policy/managing-web-records.html.

Related schedules - See schedule 0094 for electronic bulletin boards and other collaborative technologies such as blogs and wikis. Records related to procedures on site management are covered by schedule 1006 item b, and policies are covered by schedule 1023 item a.

Reasons for Disposition:

The following changes were made in the 03/31/2017 version:

Title: Data Standards and Registry Services

Program: All Programs

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 404 - Technology Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-08-15

Description:

Registries provide the ability to register, map and manage metadata and information important to the Agency and its partner systems. Registries may contain objects or data used within multiple systems such as common code sets, facility information, or substances. They may contain information about individual Agency systems or datasets or reusable software components and services that may be used in multiple systems. Registration of contents is the single unique concept that makes a registry a registry. Quality assurance is provided and stewards are assigned to maintain and manage specific contents. In all cases, registries serve as an organizing structure for the purpose of facilitating discovery of Agency information resources. The registries do not contain environmental data, but are collections or repositories of metadata that describe information to make the data more meaningful and easier to find.

Data standards are part of the EPA Enterprise Data Architecture. They are maintained with the EPA registries. Data standards are used to improve the quality of environmental data and also facilitate data integration.

Description:

The Federal Docket Management System (FDMS) is a government-wide Web-based portal system providing the public with electronic access to the entire regulatory docket, including rules, supporting documents and public comments, as well as other materials being made available for public review and comment.

FDMS allows the public access to proposed and final rules, other agency actions listed in the Federal Register, and the ability to submit comments on proposed regulations and any other materials exposed to the public, including other comments received. Documents published in the Federal Register are sent to FDMS the same day they are published, and then routed to the agency sponsoring the publication. Agencies that have implemented FDMS into their business processes then create a docket for the publication and can receive comments directly from the public on the publication or on any other supporting materials they have posted. Comments received in paper by the agency are scanned and processed through the system by the partner agency. Federal Register publications for agencies that have not yet implemented FDMS will be posted in FDMS, but until the agency has implemented FDMS they are unable to include additional supporting materials, and they are unable to receive comments through FDMS. Instead, comments received are transmitted to the agency in an e-mail from the managing contractor of FDMS. The FDMS application is hosted and managed by EPA, however, each agency is responsible for its content and has a number of configuration options.

FDMS is capable of electronically receiving and maintaining images and text documents in support of regulatory development related to a federal agency's proposed rules and other agency actions are made available for public review and comment. Each agency owns and manages its data in the system and controls internal access and workflow. The data and images maintained in the docket management module will be for the purposes of public access only for a prescribed length of time. Therefore, the official record is the responsibility of the participating agency. It is the responsibility of the participating agency to ensure they retain and disposition (including transfer of permanent records to the National Archives) all record copies of information captured in FDMS according to their approved records schedules.

It is anticipated that the system will also have an eToolbox module to assist with the development, review, and publication of federal regulations and analysis of public comments. Examples of these tools include electronic reading rooms, workflow tools to facilitate or enhance the drafting of a rule, data mining tools, and dashboard to display the real-time performance of the process.

An additional component is being developed for FDMS to provide for the management of electronic records. Once implemented, FDMS will provide participating agencies with functionality that meets the Department of Defense Electronic Records Management Software Application Design Criteria Standard (DoD 5015.2-STD) and can serve as a component of their overall records management program.

Title: Fuel Reporting System (DCFuels)

Program: Air

Applicability: Headquarters

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:
- N1-412-09-4

Description:

The Fuel Reporting System (DCFuels) includes compliance data related to gasoline, diesel fuel and a variety of fuels and fuel additives. The data are collected from refiners, importers, independent laboratories, and fuel and fuel additive manufacturers. DCFuels includes two types of data: (1) Fuel and Fuel Additive Registration (DCFFARS) for registration of companies and products; and (2) Reformulated Gasoline and Anti-Dumping Database (RFG/AD) for compliance reporting.

DCFFARS data supports the registration of fuels and fuel additive products prior to their introduction into commerce and provides information which protects the public from motor fuel/additives which may produce environmental harm.

RFG/AD collects data for a variety of activities including averaging, banking and trading programs, quarterly and annual compliance demonstration, and product quality parameters from a variety of submitters. Reporting programs under RFG/AD include: Reformulated Gasoline and Anti-Dumping, Tier 2 Gasoline Sulfur, Ultra Low Sulfur Diesel, MSAT Gasoline Toxics, RFS, and MSAT-2 Gasoline Benzene. The compliance information provides a picture of fuel production and characteristics useful in developing air pollution control strategies and is used to pursue alleged civil and criminal violations.

The EPA Moderated Transaction System (EMTS) is a credit reporting and management system for credit generation, purchases, sales, and use for compliance with regulatory programs. Regulated parties enter credit transaction data into EMTS which moderates transactions between parties and provides integrity to credit markets. The system was brought on line July 2010.

Submissions are currently in paper and electronic; electronic submissions are done through EPA's Central Data Exchange (CDX) which is scheduled separately.

Program: Water

Applicability: Regions

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-06-31

Description:

The Underground Injection Control (UIC) program works with state, local, and tribal governments to oversee underground injection of waste in order to prevent contamination of drinking water resources. The Underground Injection Control (UIC) databases maintained by the regional program offices contain detailed information on well operators, administrative orders, permits and individual wells for all wells where EPA is the permitting authority. They track compliance schedules and inspections and include reports, some correspondence, inventory, and sampling and analytical data. They may also include notices of noncompliance that do not necessarily result in enforcement actions and compliance orders. They track both permitted and "rule-authorized" wells. Rule-authorized wells were grandfathered in at the start of the UIC program, and operators with rule-authorized wells are required to adhere to standards similar to those for permitted wells.

Input for the databases comes from a variety of sources, including inventory forms submitted by operators when the program first started in the 1980s; permit applications; well test data; compliance inspections; enforcement actions; and monitoring report data. Information is extracted from source documents and keyed in manually.

Output includes reports on development of administrative orders; well inventory counts; workload reports; listings of permit applications received year to date, and similar reports.

EPA regional offices maintain separate databases containing detailed information on wells including well operators, ownership, nature and type of wells, operating status, and permits. Implementation varies from region to region. Some information from these regional systems is extracted and sent to EPA headquarters for the UIC Program Summary System, scheduled as N1-412-95-4/4 (EPA series 0432).

Regional systems may include facility information from tribal lands. In the EPA regional office in Chicago, for example, a tribal code is entered to designate which reservation the well is located within.

Title: High Production Volume Information System (HPVIS)

Program: Toxic Substances

Applicability: Headquarters

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-09-19

Description:

The High Production Volume Information System (HPVIS) provides access to health and environmental effect information obtained through the HPV Challenge Program, which "challenges" companies to make data on chemicals produced or imported into the United States in quantities of one million pounds or more per year publicly available. The system allows users to search for summary information, test plans, and new data on high production volume chemicals as they are developed.

Test data is voluntarily submitted to EPA by chemical manufacturers and trade associations. HPVIS submissions contain data on up to 50 endpoints organized into four disciplines: physical/chemical properties (e.g., melting point, vapor pressure); environmental fate and pathways (e.g., biodegradation, stability in soil); ecotoxicity (e.g., fish toxicity, toxicity to aquatic plants); and, mammalian health effects (e.g., reproductive toxicity, developmental toxicity). HPVIS data is available on EPA's Internet site and users may search by either chemical name or CAS number. HPVIS also contains HPV Chemical Hazard Characterizations prepared during EPA's ongoing review of the health and environmental effects data, as well as Risk-Based Prioritization documents prepared from EPA's examination of hazard and exposure information.

The National Dry Deposition Network (NDDN), EPA's forerunner to CASTNET, was established in 1986 to provide information on, and to track trends in, pollutant concentrations and the dry deposition component of total atmospheric deposition. CASTNET was established in 1991 and NDDN was merged into CASTNET. Public data is available on EPA's Web site.

Title: Safe Drinking Water Accession and Review System (SDWARS)

Program: Water

Applicability: Headquarters

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-08-1

Description:

The Safe Drinking Water Accession and Review System (SDWARS) is a Web-based data entry system supporting the collection of data under the Unregulated Contaminant Monitoring Rule (UCMR). The database allows all stakeholders to submit, review, and post data. Laboratories post UCMR data, and the public water systems (PWSs) review, approve, and submit the posted results to EPA. The data is later transferred to the National Contaminant Occurrence Database (NCOD) to facilitate analysis, review of contaminant occurrence, and to guide the development of subsequent contaminants for the Candidates Contaminant List (CCL). The data in SDWARS is modified every five years to allow reporting of new unregulated contaminants.

SDWARS can also be used to maintain unregulated contaminant data generated from studies (e.g., sulfate in drinking water) or national surveys to determine whether or not to regulate a contaminant.

Title: National RCRA Information System (RCRAInfo)

Program: RCRA

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-04-8

Description:

RCRAInfo is one of EPA's mission-critical systems used by EPA regional offices and the states to record and track information provided by the regulated community concerning the generation, shipment, treatment, and disposal of hazardous wastes. Input includes information from facilities on the amounts and kinds of hazardous waste being generated, transported, and stored during the reporting year.

In most cases, the states serve as primary implementers of the program in lieu of EPA regional offices. However, in some states, and for certain aspects of the program, EPA regions retain all, or some, program implementation responsibility. EPA headquarters, regions, and states work in partnership to redefine information needs for the RCRA program under the Waste Information Needs and the Information for Making Environmental Decisions initiative (WIN/Informed).

The system also tracks significant milestones of state and EPA activity supporting program planning, implementation, and reporting of accomplishments. Output also includes data for the National Biennial Report on Hazardous Waste that is prepared under Congressional mandate, as well as ad hoc reports.

The system interfaces with other EPA systems, including the Facility Registry System (FRS) and Envirofacts, which are scheduled separately.

The Chemical Update System (CUS) contains confidential data reported by industry (approximately 1200 companies) as a partial update of the TSCA Inventory. Manufacturers and importers are required to report company information (plant site name, address, DUNS number) and chemical information (CAS registry number, PMN/Bonafide/TMEA or CCID Number, and production volume) for chemicals they manufactured or imported in excess of 10,000 pounds in the immediately preceding fiscal year. Polymers, naturally occurring substances, and UVCB's are exempt from reporting requirements. Reporting takes place every four years, beginning in December 1986. Production volumes on the CUS database are discrete amounts, rather than ranges, found on the Chemicals in Commerce Information System (CICIS).

Title: Budget Formulation System (BFS)

Program: Budget Operations

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 402 - Financial Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-09-1

Description:

The Budget Formulation System (BFS) automates EPA's budget processes, including planning, budgeting, execution, and reporting. Budget data is entered at a general level by offices and regions or by the Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO). The system maintains snapshots of the budget as it exists at key stages of the process. Budgetary transactions are entered into the system and edited against business rules and budgetary limitations. Authorizations and approvals of transactions are done on-line with an audit trail of each transaction. The system serves as the source of information on EPA's organizational structure, planning structure, budget structure, fiduciary structure, and the business rules.

This system interfaces with the Integrated Financial Management System (IFMS) and the EPA Payroll System (EPAYS) which are scheduled separately. It replaces the Resources Management Information System/Budget Analysis System (RIMS/BARS).

Title: Bulletins Live

Program: Pesticides

Applicability: Headquarters

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-09-6

Description:

Bulletins Live is a system that helps users determine if limitations on pesticide use are necessary to ensure a pesticide's use will not harm a species listed as threatened or endangered under the Endangered Species Act. It functions as a portal through which the following types of data are available: state and county maps, Endangered Species Protection Bulletins, species protection demarcations and explanations, and pesticide limitation codes. Based on user-entered criteria and maps, bulletins are generated to show under what conditions a pesticide may be applied. Bulletins identify species of concern and the name of the pesticide active ingredient that may affect the species. They also provide a description of the protection measures necessary to protect the species and contain a county-level map showing the geographic area(s) associated with the protection measures, depending on the susceptibility of the species to other factors such as vandalism. Bulletins are effective and enforceable as part of the pesticide product label.

The Bulletins Live system replaces the Endangered Species Map File. The Endangered Species Map File contains 8-1/2 x 11 inch endangered species habitat maps submitted by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and states. Map information was used to produce digitized maps of habitat information. Maps were updated constantly until issued as an enforceable bulletin in the Federal Register. The file includes correspondence, draft and final maps, and supporting information from states, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Title: Pesticide Registration Information System (PRISM)

Program: Pesticides

Applicability: Headquarters

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-09-16

Description:

The Office of Pesticide Programs (OPP) has migrated all of its major data systems including regulatory and scientific data, workflow tracking and electronic document management into one integrated system, the Pesticide Registration Information System (PRISM). PRISM provides a centralized source of information on all registered pesticide products, including chemical composition, toxicity, name and address of registrant, brand names, registration actions, and related data. It consolidates information stored on the mainframe, the OPP LAN, on stand-alone computers and in paper copy. The purpose of this system is to decrease the data entry burden, increase analytical capabilities, better track decision-making processes, prevent loss of and improve access to critical decision documents, and make OPP information readily available to those both within and outside of the Program.

PRISM is the successor to the Office of Pesticide Programs Information System Network (OPPIN). Data has been migrated from the following databases: Chemical Vocabulary (CV), Company Name and Address (CNAD), Pesticide Document Management System (PDMS), Pesticide Product Information System (PPIS), Chemical Review Management System (CRMS), FIFRA CBI Access (FAS), Jackets, Product Data Call-In (PDCI), Phones, Pesticide Regulatory Action Tracking (PRAT), Reference System (REFS), Tolerance Indexes (TIS and TOTS). Sources of the input are paper copy and electronic data. EPA's Central Data Exchange (CDX), scheduled as EPA 097, is the gateway for electronic submissions.

The system is designed mainly for use by OPP staff, however, read-only access to the non-confidential business information (CBI) portion of the data is available to the entire Agency. Non-CBI information is available to the public.

Guidance:

Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.

Sensitive information - These records may contain sensitive information (e.g., controlled unclassified information (CUI) such as personally identifiable information (PII)) – Records containing CUI must be appropriately managed, safeguarded, and when appropriate, destroyed with caution, for paper records by shredding or pulping and for electronic records deleted at final disposition to protect confidentiality.

Since 2002, incident reports are being scanned and imaged onto CD-ROM. Prior to that time, all incident reports were in microfiche, all of which have been retired.

System indexes and incident data in electronic format are transferred to NARA’s Center for Electronic Records. The index file is organized by product name. The first transfer will consist of all index records with associated images, and subsequent transfers will occur when the incident images are transferred.

Electronic software program - The electronic software program, formerly item a, is to be kept as long as needed to ensure access to, and use of, the electronic records throughout the authorized retention period. The electronic software program is covered by schedule 1012 item e.

Input - Input, formerly item d, is covered by schedule 1012 item e.
Output and reports - Output and reports, formerly item e, refer to the records schedule for the activity supported by the output and reports. Follow the disposition instructions for the applicable records schedule item. If more than one records schedule or item applies, follow the disposition instructions with the later dates.

System documentation - System documentation, including system development documentation, formerly item f, refers to those records necessary to document how the system captures, manipulates, and outputs data. System documentation is transferred to the National Archives along with the electronic data. Disposition of system documentation is covered by schedule 1012 item a.

Title: Storage and Retrieval of Water Quality Information (STORET)

Program: Water

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-09-12

Description:

The Storage and Retrieval of Water Quality Information (STORET) system is an automated information system which assists state and EPA officials to make pollution control decisions by providing a capability to store, retrieve and analyze water quality information. Information includes chemical, physical, and biological water quality of the Nation's waters, including ambient, intensive survey, effluent, and biological water quality monitoring information. Most STORET information has been added since 1975, however, records go back to 1899. Information is contributed voluntarily by federal, state, interstate agencies, universities, tribes, and volunteers.

STORET has the following components:

- Data Warehouse - serves as a repository for data collected by EPA and agency partners. The STORET Data warehouse is more accessible via online data reports, Web services, and new tools.
- Water Quality Exchange (WQX) - uses standardized data exchange schemas along with technology to load/enter/validate data into the Data warehouse. WQX provides the means for direct computer-to-computer data exchange. WQX leverages both the agency architecture and other agency IT and agency non-IT investments, including the Central Data Exchange (CDX), the Substance Registry System, and the Exchange Network Grant Program. WQX also allows EPA to better integrate water monitoring data with other Federal Agencies (i.e. USGS).
- WQX Web Tool - uses a web portal access to standardize data exchange schemas for loading/entering/validating data into the Data warehouse. The Web Tool provides a User-Web to computer data exchange.

NARA Disposal Authority:
- N1-412-03-6

Description:

The SDWIS/Operational Data System (SDWIS/ODS) is a national database storing routine information which the Agency needs to monitor approximately 175,000 public water systems (PWS) and their compliance with monitoring requirements, maximum contaminant level (MCL) regulations, and other requirements of the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments of 1986 and 1996. On October 1, 2005, a modernized version of SDWIS/FED replaced the legacy mainframe-based version. This new version is composed of several components, notably the SDWIS/Operational Data System (SDWIS/ODS) and the SDWIS Data Warehouse. The SDWIS/ODS database receives, processes, and stores data from the states. The Data Warehouse extracts data from SDWIS/ODS quarterly and makes it available for end user access. SDWIS/ODS is not accessible to end users. The complete set of data from the legacy SDWIS/FED was copied over into SDWIS/ODS.

Information tracked includes: PWS ID number, location (including city, county), whether system is active or inactive, the type of system (community, non-transient non-community, transient non-community), population served, number of service connections, water system's source of water, primary source of drinking water, past names, dates of the most recent update, whether or not the system is a significant non-complier, service area characteristics, longitude and latitude, treatment data, milestones for lead and copper and surface water treatment rules, and unregulated monitoring data.

Data is input by the states and used by EPA headquarters to provide required quarterly reports to other components of EPA and to satisfy external reporting requirements. It is also used by headquarters, regional offices, and states to perform oversight.

The system contains compliance information from 1980 to present and relates follow-up actions to specific violations.

The FIFRA/TSCA Tracking System (FTTS) is a regional system used to track compliance activities such as inspections, case review, enforcement actions taken, samples collected, and pesticide grants and cooperative agreement information. The compliance monitoring and enforcement activities are tracked from the time an inspector conducts (or schedules) an inspection until the time the case is closed or the enforcement action is settled. The system provides for four categories of reports: (1) reporting and enforcement and compliance assurance priorities (RECAP), (2) standard reports, (3) ad hoc reports, and (4) tracking reports.

All 10 regions and headquarters use FTTS, but the FTTS regional databases work independently of one another. Regional FTTS data entry personnel send their data to headquarters every month to rebuild the National Compliance Data Base (NCDB).

Excludes: The NCDB scheduled as EPA 0420.

FTTS acts as a local activity tracking and management tool. Each FTTS system is a stand-alone system for each regional office and is capable of functioning as a reporting tool. FTTS interacts with the NCDB to provide support for the national pesticides and toxics program.
Input data for FTTS is extracted from a variety of documents such as inspection reports, import reviews, samples, etc. In addition, all of the data contained in FTTS is not transferred to NCDB. For example, selected data such as dates and comments are not included in the monthly update to NCDB. NCDB is scheduled as EPA 0420.

Title: Underground Injection Control Program Summary System (UIC PSS)

Program: Water

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- DAA-0412-2016-0001

Description:

Contains summary reports of individual injection well activities conducted by Underground Injection Control (UIC) primacy programs. The summary information is used by EPA for the monitoring and enforcement of the UIC portion of the Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA). EPA's monitoring and enforcement are primarily achieved through initial, bi-annual, and annual reporting requirements. EPA uses a set of standardized forms, EPA form 7520-1 through 7520-4 (7520 forms) to collect and maintain UIC information.

The following procedures for records workflow and custodianship are documented in "Underground Injection Control: Procedures for 7520 Reporting," available from the Office of Ground Water and Drinking Water.

- States with primary enforcement authority (primacy) submit 7520 forms and annual well inventory by e-reporting via the UIC National Database or in paper or by scan to EPA Regions. Regions maintain the 7520 forms by primacy state agency.
- Regions with direct primacy responsibilities submit 7520 forms by e-reporting via the UIC National Database or in paper or by scan to EPA Headquarters (HQ).
- The 7520 forms summarize activities conducted by all UIC programs. The annual well inventory counts the number of wells by well class as of September 30 of each fiscal year.
- HQ maintains e-reported well specific information in an oracle database called the UIC National Database, covered by EPA 0754.
- Regions submit scanned copies of state paper forms to HQ which maintains them as the National 7520 Compilation.
- HQ also maintains the summary information from the scanned 7520 forms and the e-reported data on a PC-based system called the UIC Program Summary System (UIC PSS).

The 7520 forms summaries represent the minimum information necessary to achieve the Agency's goals and satisfy regulatory requirements (e.g., permits, compliance and enforcement, inspection and mechanical integrity testing). Annual inventory is submitted separately and maintained in HQ.

NARA regulations require that electronic records be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct agency business and meet NARA-approved disposition.

Input - Input, formerly item b, is covered by EPA 1012, item e. Input to the UIC PSS consists of duplicate, scanned copies of forms 7520 used for data entry, spreadsheets used to import data during an update process, and electronic data exported from the UIC National Database.

Output and reports - For disposition of output and reports, formerly item d, refer to the records schedule for the activity supported by the output and reports. Follow the disposition instructions for the applicable records schedule item. If more than one records schedule item applies, follow the disposition instructions with the later dates.

The purpose of the UIC program is to establish a federal-state regulatory system to ensure that actual or potential sources of drinking water are not endangered by the underground injection of contaminants. EPA information users include regional and headquarters staff who make decisions to:

- justify budget request/program plans;
- make fair resource allocation/grant allotments;
- satisfy public and other group requests;
- assess program progress and implementation;
- identify environmental success against litigation;
- plan the budget; track and evaluate regional performance;
- identify research needs and respond to inquiries from the Office of Management and Budget, Congress, Government Accountability Office, and the public.

Primary enforcement agencies in states use the information to target inspection and enforcement activity; to establish permit terms and conditions; to track performance against demands; identify violations; assess their significance; and evaluate their own program activities.

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-08-2

Description:

The National Contaminant Occurrence Database (NCOD) includes data used to identify contaminants on the Candidates Contaminant List (CCL). The data is used to determine whether to develop drinking water standards for a particular contaminant and to develop standards for the contaminants that the Agency selects. The information comes from a number of sources, including public water systems and source (ambient) water data. For public systems, the database holds historical data on regulated and unregulated contaminants. The data is available to the public.

The Safe Drinking Water Accession and Review System (SDWARS) serves as the input to NCOD, and is scheduled as EPA 0253.

If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.
Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

See EPA 0253 for SDWARS. Records related to the development of regulations, standards, and guidelines and dockets are covered by schedule 1023.

Title: Hazardous Waste Injection Well Database

Program: Water

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-95-4/5

Description:

The Hazardous Waste Injection Well Database is a PC-based inventory of Class I wells as defined by the Safe Drinking Water Act. The system stores information obtained during a special study to collect information for the 1985 Report to Congress on Injection of Hazardous Wastes. It also provides information on alternative treatment capacity analysis in addition to scheduling which wells are affected by the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA).

The database includes the following data: facility or well owner/operator, identification and well class codes, chemical information concerning the injectate, well construction information, hydrogeological information about the area where injection occurs, waste information, RCRA codes and volumes.

The database consists of well records of active, inactive, and abandoned Class I wells and some limited information on Class I nonhazardous and Class IV wells. Since the completion of the study, few states have elected to update their information, therefore the major portion of records are only up-to-date as of 1987.

The Industrial Facilities Discharge (IFD) File is a database of industrial point source dischargers to surface waters in the United States. There are three basic kinds of information:

- Facility - Includes site identification codes and summary effluent discharge.
- Discharge - Includes the components of individual discharges, including location, flow, and Standard Industrial Code (SIC). Nearly half of the direct dischargers tracked are POTWs (publicly-owned treatment works). Also includes indirect dischargers - industrial flows from industries that discharge to other facilities, such as POTWs, rather than directly to surface waters.
- Superfund sites on the National Priority List - Includes location name, State and county codes, latitude/longitude coordinates, Reach number, and the mileage offset within the reach.

Information is derived from several sources including the Permit Compliance System (PCS), the Needs Survey database, and EPA regional offices, states and local agencies. The File can be used for regulatory impact analyses, best available technology studies, regulation development, and special projects. It can be linked to other databases such as PCS and STORET as well as outside databases such as CETIS (Complex Effluent Toxicity Information System).

The Waterbody System (WBS) is a database of state water quality assessment information collected to meet the Agency's Congressional reporting requirements under Section 305(b) of the Clean Water Act. States submit information to EPA on several types of surface waters affected by point or nonpoint source pollution, lakes monitored under the Clean Lakes Program, and surface waters requiring the assigning of total maximum daily loads limits to restore or maintain their water quality.

Information entered into WBS includes: waterbody identification, water quality status, sources of impairment, assessment information, and causes of impairment. States, territories, and interstate commissions assemble available monitoring information and make judgments on water quality before summary information can be entered into the system. Information is submitted to EPA every two years. WBS stores the components and the results of the assessment, and is not designed to store, manipulate, or analyze raw monitoring data.

The WBS is linked to STORET. The NPDES number also links facilities reported in WBS to Industrial Facilities Discharge (IFD) system.

Description:

The Integrated Risk Information System (IRIS) database contains summary toxicity information for use in human health risk assessment. IRIS is the Agency's primary vehicle for communication of chronic health hazard information representing EPA consensus positions following comprehensive review by Agency scientists. It is a useful information resource tool that points the user to the underlying human and/or animal data used to support the Agency's opinion. The system contains hazard identification and dose-response risk information for more than 500 chemicals.

IRIS is comprised of three major sections: non-cancer health effects resulting from oral exposure, non-cancer health effects resulting from inhalation exposure, and carcinogenic assessment for both oral and inhalation exposure. It contains full bibliographic citations for each substance file, directing the user to the primary cited studies and pertinent scientific literature. IRIS is accessible to the public as well as EPA staff.

Title: RadNet

Program: Radiation

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:
- N1-412-99-7

Description:

RadNet, formerly known as the Environmental Radiation Ambient Monitoring System (ERAMS), is a national system of monitoring stations that regularly collect air, precipitation, and drinking water to track radiation in the environment. Over time, RadNet sample testing and monitoring results show the fluctuations in normal background levels of environmental radiation. The RadNet system will also detect higher than normal background levels of environmental radiation and higher than normal radiation levels during a radiological incident.

RadNet has more than 135 stationary air monitors located across all 50 states. RadNet also has 40 deployable air monitors that can be sent anywhere in the United States if needed. RadNet stationary monitors run 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and send near-real-time measurements of gamma radiation to EPA's National Analytical Radiation Environmental Laboratory (NAREL). Computers continuously review these data. If there is a meaningful increase in radiation levels, laboratory staff are alerted and then investigate the cause.

RadNet data are available in databases and reports. EPA releases analytical and monitoring results after checking to ensure they meet quality standards. Envirofacts RadNet Database contains laboratory analysis results from air monitor filters and samples of precipitation and drinking water. Historical RadNet milk sampling data is available in the Envirofacts RadNet database as well. This database includes both the current and historical data needed to estimate long-term trends in environmental radiation levels. The RadNet Database in EPA's Central Data Exchange (CDX) contains the near-real-time environmental data from fixed and deployable air monitors.

Environmental Radiation Data (ERD) is an electronic (and formerly print) journal published quarterly by NAREL in Montgomery, Alabama. It contains data from RadNet and its predecessor systems.

The Air Quality System (AQS) serves as the national repository for ambient air quality measurements and descriptive information about the locations where the ambient air quality data are collected. The data, which is collected by state, local and tribal agencies, is periodically uploaded into AQS. It is used to track progress in implementing the national air pollution control program. For example, EPA uses the data to determine non-attainment areas for pollutants that have national ambient air quality standards (NAAQS) for trends analysis, modeling, providing the public with information about the cleanliness of the air in various areas, and for various air quality reports for Congress and others.

Users submit data via the EPA Central Data Exchange (CDX), on an as-needed basis, and the data is transferred from AQS to the Envirofacts information warehouse.

Applicability: Agency-wide, with exceptions

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- N1-412-09-18

Description:

The Beach Advisory and Closing On-line Notification (BEACON) is an electronic system that receives and displays nonrecord copies of state beach water quality and swimming advisory data. The Beaches Environmental Assessment and Coastal Health Act of 2000 requires EPA to collect, store and maintain a public right-to-know pollution occurrence database on state designated coastal recreation waters. These record copies are stored in the Program Tracking, Advisories, Water Quality Standards, and Nutrients (PRAWN) database.

State agencies send beach data via EPA's Central Data Exchange (CDX). Input for the system flows through the Electronic Beaches Environmental Assessment and Coastal Health (eBeaches) system and includes: (1) monitoring and station location information from the Water Quality Exchange (WQX) and STORET; (2) notification data flows from the Program tracking, Beach Advisory, Water quality standard, and Nutrient database (PRAWN); and, (3) beach location data from the Reach Address Database (RAD). BEACON was formerly known as the National Health Beach Survey (NHBS).

Excludes: STORET (including WQX) scheduled as EPA 400, Reach (including RAD) which is the responsibility of the United States Geological Survey, and PRAWN which is scheduled separately.

Title: Underground Injection Control National Database (UIC DB)

Program: Water

Applicability: Headquarters

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- DAA-0412-2013-0003-0001 (Item a)
- DAA-0412-2013-0003-0002 (Item b)

Description:

The UIC National Database (UIC DB) supports the EPA oversight and management of the Underground Injection Control (UIC) programs directly implemented by the EPA Regions, State and tribal governments to regulate the owners and operators of underground injection wells (UIC) in order to prevent endangerment of underground sources of drinking water. EPA has awarded selected States with primary enforcement authority (primacy) to implement federal requirements and has assumed direct implementation authority (DI) for all State and Tribal programs without primacy.

The UIC DB, initially deployed in 2007, is a relational database management system composed of UIC facility and well inventory permit, inspection, violation and enforcement data. The UIC DB flows data from the 69 UIC programs (57 states, 2 Tribal and 10 Regional DI). The source data received from the primacy states and Regional DI programs are submitted through the Central Data Exchange (CDX), validated and then parsed and loaded into the preproduction version of the UIC DB. Once reviewed and accepted by EPA, the preproduction version is imported into the production version of the UIC DB. Submitted data replace the previous data files on a quarterly basis. The UIC data in the production version of the UIC DB will be used to support the Agency's response to any queries, including from the public. Both versions of the UIC DB are on an Oracle application server at the National Computer Center (NCC). This database is maintained by the headquarters Office of Water.

Disposition Instructions:

Item a: Electronic data

NARA Disposal Authority: DAA-0412-2013-0003-0001

- Permanent
• Close when program is discontinued or system is terminated.
• When system is in operation, transfer a copy of the data from the production version of the UIC DB every 5 years to the National Archives, as specified in 36 CFR 1235.44-1235.50 or standards applicable at the time. Transfer final data to the National Archives 6 months after system is closed.

Item b: Input

Includes input from primacy states and Regional DI programs.

NARA Disposal Authority: DAA-0412-2013-0003-0002

• Disposable
  • Close when data have been entered into the master file or database and verified, or when no longer required to support reconstruction of, or serve as backup to, a master file or database, whichever is later.
  • Destroy immediately after file closure.

Guidance:

Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.

Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

Until a primacy state or regional DI program transitions to the UIC database as its data of record, all official UIC reporting to EPA from a primacy state and regional DI program continues to be done at a summary level through the 7520s or the Performance Accountable Measures. Full implementation of the UIC National Database for all UIC programs is projected to be 2013. The regional DI databases will continue in operation after its other reporting transitions to use of the UIC database.

EPA regional offices maintain separate databases for the State and Tribal programs they directly implement containing detailed information on wells including well operators, ownership, nature and type of wells, operating status, and permits. Implementation varies from region to region. Some information from these regional systems is extracted and sent to EPA headquarters for the UIC Program Summary System. Regional systems may include additional fields not reported in the UIC DB, but deemed to be important by the offices. In the EPA regional office in Chicago, for example, a tribal code is entered to designate which reservation the well is located within.

UIC permits are covered by schedule 1047. See schedule 1044 for enforcement action and compliance files. The Underground Injection Control (UIC) Program Summary System maintained by headquarters is covered by EPA 0432.

Electronic software program - The electronic software program is to be kept as long as needed to ensure access to, and use of, the electronic records throughout the authorized retention period to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. NARA regulations require that electronic records be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and meet NARA-approved disposition. The electronic software program is covered by schedule 1012 Information and Technology Management.

Output and reports - For disposition of output and reports refer to the records schedule for the activity supported by the output and reports. Follow the disposition instructions for the applicable records schedule item. If more than one records schedule or item applies, follow the disposition instructions with the later dates.

System documentation - System documentation consisting of those records necessary to document how the system captures, manipulates and outputs data while in operation at EPA is covered by schedule 1012.

System development documentation - System development documentation, including but not limited to implementation plans, flow status, milestones, target completion dates, and business rules for data validation, is maintained in EPA's Central Data Exchange (CDX) and covered by EPA 0097, item c.

Reasons for Disposition:

The following changes were made in the 05/31/2013 version:

- Revised item a disposition instructions to transfer the data every five years.

The following changes were made in the 04/30/2013 version:

- Revised item a disposition instructions to identify which version of system is transferred.
- Updated contact information.

The UIC National Database was developed in response to a growing need for consistent well related information for use in decision making, regulatory activities and reporting to Congress. The data in the regional databases was previously approved as permanent (N1-412-06-31).

NARA Disposal Authority:

- DAA-0412-2015-0002

Description:

The Labor and Employee Relations Information System (LERIS) is a case management and tracking system. The system contains a variety of information pertaining to union activity (grievances, unfair labor practices (ULPs)), and employee disciplinary/adverse actions (suspensions, removals, etc.). LERIS can produce various data reports and analyze comparable cases from across the Agency. Common searches are for (1) comparable cases, i.e., searching for cases involving similar offenses in order to compare the penalties given; and, (2) linking labor relations (LR) and employee relations (ER) cases, i.e., disciplinary actions and subsequent appeals. Specific types of information contained in LERIS include: disciplinary, adverse and performance-based actions; negotiated grievances (i.e., union-affiliated); administrative grievances (for non-bargaining unit employees); unfair labor practices; negotiations and predecisional involvement (PDI) activities; formal meetings/discussions; counseling, including leave restriction; performance assistance plans and performance improvement plans; union information requests; and unit clarification petitions.

Title: Emergency Management Portal (EMP)

Program: Emergency Prevention, Preparedness and Response

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 108 - Environmental Management

NARA Disposal Authority:
- DAA-0412-2015-0003

Description:

The Emergency Management Portal (EMP) serves as a gateway to various emergency preparedness, prevention and emergency response applications. Currently, EMP is the portal to five applications listed below.

Field Readiness (FR) provides a single source for all training records and serves as the central source for skill and expertise tracking for emergency response personnel (Response Support Corps (RSC)) across the Agency.

Equipment Tracking (ETM) allows the emergency response community to track the location, status and maintenance of all equipment and parts and supplies within emergency response warehouses, using standardized vocabularies such as model names and status terms.

Oil Database (Oil DB) serves as a central, nationally-consistent platform for the Agency's Oil Spill Pollution Prevention Program tracking and measurement reporting. It enables users to search for and add facilities, generate reports, and store critical information such as inspection data, discharge history, and compliance data. The EMP Oil Application serves as the official database for the program.

Sampling-Monitoring and Analysis (SMA) is used only during incidents of national significance to collate regional sampling and monitoring information, present it to the office subject matter expert for review, and make it available for public dissemination.

The Local Government Reimbursement (LGR) database is used to manage local government applications for grants. It is a database of documents and notes from reviewers and allows generation of final payment documents and letters.
The system also contains an administrative module (EMP-Admin) which functions as the administration module for various applications, and the Emergency Management Business Intelligence (EMBI) tool which allows for both standardized and ad hoc reporting of the data from several of the EMP applications.

Description:

The Chemical Information System (CIS) is a centralized data system that captures documents submitted under the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA), as amended, and documents decisions associated with the review and acceptance or rejection of those submissions. Information is entered into the system by: (1) industries using electronic reporting tools; (2) EPA Confidential Business Information Center (CBIC) contractors who capture information from paper submissions; (3) members of the Records and Docket Management Branch (RDMB) who participate in the prescreening acceptance or rejection of the submissions; and, (4) scientists within the program office who participate in the prescreening and review of submissions.

The system is Oracle based and has a Documentum repository. It contains a search tool that allows users to search on a wide variety of items such as submission types, date ranges, chemical IDs, and company names. The system was activated in 2013 and the fielded data contained within the system dates back to the 1970s. The system contains both confidential business information (CBI) and non-CBI information.

Title: Email Managed Under a Capstone Approach

Program: All Programs

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: 401 – Administrative Management

NARA Disposal Authority:

- DAA-GRS-2014-0001-0001 (Item a)
- DAA-GRS-2014-0001-0002 (Item b)

Description:

This schedule covers senders’ and recipients’ versions of electronic mail messages and any attachments to the messages maintained in the email system that are managed under a Capstone approach. It also covers available functions of the email program such as calendars/appointments, task lists (“to do” lists), and chat.

Item a: Email of Capstone officials

Includes email of Capstone officials designated on the approved NARA form 1005 (NA-1005), and those officials in an acting capacity longer than 60 days. It covers email in any and all Capstone officials’ email accounts including those managed by other staff (such as personal assistants, confidential assistants, or administrative assistants); all email regardless of the address names used by the Capstone official for agency business (such as nicknames or office title names), and email from personal or non-official email accounts in which official agency business is conducted.

NARA Disposal Authority: DAA-GRS-2014-0001-0001

- Permanent
- Close file 90 days after creation or receipt.
- Transfer to the National Archives 15 years after file closure.

Item b: Email of non-Capstone employees

Includes temporary email of all other employees and contractors not included in item a of this schedule. Email that is covered by a records schedule item with a retention longer than 10 years must be saved in a recordkeeping system such as ECMS.

NARA Disposal Authority: DAA-GRS-2014-0001-0002
• Disposable
  • Close file 90 days after creation or receipt.
  • Destroy 10 years after file closure.

Guidance:

Media neutral – This schedule is not media neutral and applies to email managed in an electronic format only.

Capstone officials – Capstone officials are those employees at the highest senior levels of the agency. Senior officials at EPA designated as Capstone officials may include, but are not limited to, Administrator, Deputy Administrator (DA), Assistant Administrator (AA), Deputy Assistant Administrator (DAA), Regional Administrator (RA), Deputy Regional Administrator (DRA), General Counsel, Inspector General, Chief Financial Officer, and other similar positions. To ensure proper oversight and accountability, EPA documented and submitted a list of Capstone officials to NARA for approval prior to implementing a Capstone approach to managing emails. EPA is required to obtain approval of a resubmitted NARA form 1005 (NA-1005) at least every four years.

Exceptions – Copies of email which are necessary to document Agency activities and meet the definition of a record, and which have an approved records schedule with a retention of longer than 10 years for non-Capstone employees must be saved in an electronic recordkeeping system (e.g., Enterprise Content Management Systems (ECMS)), and may also need to be maintained in organized files (e.g., case files, project files). Copies of email maintained in other files (e.g., controlled and major correspondence) are to be disposed of in accordance with the disposition instructions for the related records. Other email records created and received by senior officials are covered by schedule 1051.

Email of Capstone officials – Personal emails not related to EPA business, non-record material (e.g., email blasts such as agency-wide communications), and transitory email records (records of short-term interest or that have minimal documentary or evidentiary value) are to be removed (“culled”) within 90 days from the date the message was received or sent. If they are not removed from the email system, they will become part of the permanent record and available to the public after transfer to NARA.

Email from personal or non-official email accounts – Email from personal or non-official email accounts in which official EPA business is conducted is also included under this schedule. A complete copy of these records must be forwarded to the employees EPA email account not later than 20 days after the original creation or transmission of the record.

Reasons for Disposition:

Disposal generally conforms with NARA's General Records Schedule 6.1, except that the retention for email of non-Capstone officials has been extended from 7 years to 10 years.

Description:
This schedule covers senders’ and recipients’ versions of electronic mail messages and any attachments to the messages maintained in the legacy email system. It also covers available functions of the email program such as calendars/appointments, task lists (‘to do’ lists), and chat. The format is Lotus Notes using version 8.53 and includes the incoming and outgoing emails from all EPA employees from approximately 1998 through December 31, 2006. Emails are duplicative of records maintained elsewhere with the records to which they relate. EPA used a traditional records management “print and file” policy prior to adoption of the Enterprise Content Management System (ECMS).

Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in electronic format only, and is not media neutral. The electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., confidential business information (CBI), personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

Reasons for Disposition:

EPA plans to adopt NARA’s Capstone approach for managing email. The previous EPA email records schedule 165 was based on NARA’s General Records Schedule (GRS) 20, item 14, and instructed users to delete the email from the email system after the email record was copied to a recordkeeping system.

Title: Personal Papers

Program: All Programs

Applicability: Agency-wide

Function: N/A - not applicable

NARA Disposal Authority:

- Not applicable

Description:

Personal papers are documentary materials, or any reasonably segregable portion thereof, of a private or nonpublic character that do not relate to, or have an effect upon, the conduct of Agency business. Personal papers are excluded from the definition of records in 44 U.S.C. Section 3301 and are not owned by the Agency.

Examples of personal papers include: (1) Materials accumulated by an official before joining government service that are not used subsequently in the transaction of government business; (2) Materials relating solely to an individual's private affairs, such as outside business pursuits, professional affiliations, or private political associations that do not relate to Agency business; and, (3) Diaries, journals, personal correspondence, or other personal notes that are not prepared or used for, or circulated or communicated in the course of, transacting government business.

Disposition Instructions:

- Disposable
- Destroy or remove at the discretion of the owner.

Guidance:

If information about private matters and Agency business appears in the same document, the document should be copied at the time of receipt, with the personal information deleted, and treated as a federal record.

Personal papers must be clearly designated as such and at all times be maintained separately from the Agency's records. The use of a label such as "personal," "confidential," "private," or similar designation, is not sufficient to determine that materials are personal papers. Even though they may have designations such as "personal," the materials are federal records subject to the provisions of pertinent laws and regulations (1) if they are created or received by the Agency to conduct government business and (2) if they are preserved or appropriate for preservation because they document the Agency's organization, functions, and activities or contain information on the persons, places, things, or matters dealt with by the Agency.

For Nonrecords, see EPA 0008.

Reasons for Disposition:

Personal papers are identified in 36 CFR Section 1222.36. NARA guidance states"...personal papers may be destroyed or removed at the owner's discretion."

accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Final closeout documentation may consist of an internal EPA memo. In the case of treatment works which are privatized (Executive Order 12803, dated April 30, 1992), documentation needs to be maintained until grant money is repaid or it is determined that no repayment is due.

Record copies:

- The Grants Administrator (also called the Grants Management Officer), Grant Project Officer, and Financial Management Officer are responsible for the record copies of grant records and implementing the disposition. Records may include unique program files maintained by the grant project officer or client or technical representative and documentation relating to the assistance agreement competitions. All other copies may be destroyed when no longer needed.

- The GMOs receive final certification of project completion from project officers. The GMOs are responsible for requesting final audits, if applicable and required for closeout.
- The office issuing the decision on a grant appeal is the office responsible for maintaining the record copy.

EPA Policy on Compliance, Review and Monitoring - See EPA Order 5700.6 - Policy on Compliance, Review and Monitoring for additional information on EPA's post-award grant policies and procedures.

Unopened bids for canceled solicitations - Unopened bids for canceled solicitations (formerly item f) should be returned to the bidder.

Guidance:

This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in this schedule. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.
Sensitive information - These records may contain sensitive information (e.g., controlled unclassified information (CUI) such as personally identifiable information (PII)) – Records containing CUI must be appropriately managed, safeguarded, and when appropriate, destroyed with caution, for paper records by shredding or pulping and for electronic records deleted at final disposition to protect confidentiality.

IT infrastructure - IT infrastructure refers to the basic systems and services used to supply staff with access to computers and data telecommunications. Components include hardware such as printers, computers, network and Web servers, routers, hubs, and network cabling, as well as software such as operating systems (e.g., Microsoft Windows and Novell NetWare) and shared applications (e.g., electronic mail, word processing, and database programs). The services necessary to design, implement, test, validate, and maintain components are also considered part of the IT structure. Records related to specific electronic systems that support or document mission goals (e.g., schedule 0027 ICIS) are covered by the individual schedules for those systems.

Electronic software programs - Electronic software programs are to be kept as long as needed to ensure access to, and use of, the electronic records throughout the authorized retention period to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. NARA regulations require that electronic records be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct agency business and meet NARA-approved disposition. Examples of software covered by this schedule include Air Explorer Tool (AirExplorer), eDiscovery Service, Tier2 Submit, and EPA Dashboard formerly covered by EPA 0179 and GRS 20/10.

System development records - System development records for environmental models and systems used for regulatory decision making may warrant permanent preservation and should follow the records schedule for the activity supported by the system (e.g., schedule 1023 for rulemaking records).

Electronic system data - The electronic data for an electronic system is covered by the system-specific records schedule (e.g., schedule 0027 ICIS) or one of the generic or "big bucket" system schedules (e.g., schedule 0063 electronic models and expert systems).

Input for electronic systems - Input and source records for an electronic system that is produced by another agency under the terms of an interagency agreement, or records created by another agency in response to the specific information needs of EPA, must be included in the disposition instructions for the specific system schedule. In cases where hard copy documents that contain information that is not or cannot be captured in the electronic version of the records (e.g., certain handwritten annotations), including those scanned into an electronic recordkeeping system, follow the records schedule for the activity supported by the system.

Output and reports for electronic systems - Output and reports for electronic systems are covered by the applicable records schedule for the activity supported by the input and reports.

Hardcopy or analog input and source records previously scheduled as temporary (item e) - As authorized by GRS 4.3/010, temporary records may be destroyed after they have been converted to scanned images and reviewed for quality.
Hardcopy or analog input and source records previously scheduled as permanent (item f) - Per GRS 4.3/011, exclusions to the disposition instructions for item f include: hardcopy or analog input and source records that NARA has specifically designated as permanent records that must be transferred to NARA in hardcopy format; or hardcopy records when the electronic versions do not meet NARA's electronic records standards; or hardcopy records that are not incorporated in their entirety into an electronic system; or original hardcopy still pictures, graphic materials/posters, aerial film, maps, plans, charts, sound recordings, motion picture film, or video recordings. In these cases, the records are covered by the previously approved schedule.

Copies of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives - The copy of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives (previously scheduled as schedule 0188a(3)) maintained by the submitting office until they are notified by NARA that the transfer is successful is a nonrecord (schedule 0008, item a) and can be deleted when no longer needed.

If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site [http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html].

  - Destroy immediately after file closure.

Guidance:
Media neutral - This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.

Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., confidential business information (CBI), personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

Related records - Site-specific records for Superfund, Brownfields, and oil spills are covered by schedule 1036. Contracts are covered by schedule 1004 and grants and other program agreements by schedule 1003. Compliance and enforcement records are covered by schedule 1044, and permits by schedule 1047.

Permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives - The copy of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives (e.g., previously scheduled as EPA 0091a(3), EPA 0213a(3), EPA 0233a(3), EPA 0247a(3), EPA 0258a(3), EPA 0261a(3), EPA 0262a(3), EPA 0314a(3), EPA 0315c(1)(c), EPA 0324a(3), EPA 0326a(3), EPA 0335a(3), EPA 0348a(3), EPA 0361a(3), EPA 0364a(3), EPA 0371a(3), EPA 0372a(3), EPA 0414a(3), EPA 0449a(1)(c), EPA 0451a(3), EPA 0452a(3), EPA 0453a(3), EPA 0454a(3), EPA 0455a(3), EPA 0460a(3), EPA 0461b(3), EPA 0472a(3), EPA 0501a(3), EPA 0507a(3), EPA 0507b(3), EPA 0507c(3), EPA 0514a(3), EPA 0741a(3)) maintained by the submitting office until they are notified by NARA that the transfer is successful is a nonrecord (EPA 0008, item a) and can be deleted when no longer needed.

Cited sources – Copies of published material cited in a report, study or similar records, do not need to be included as part of the official records if they are publicly available. If the cited material is available on a website, the citation must include the specific website address (e.g., http://www.epa.gov...) and the date the material was accessed. If, however, the website material is critical to support the decision, conclusion, recommendation, or guidance provided in the record, the material must be filed in the recordkeeping system with the record, if possible.

Delegated programs – If a state or other entity is authorized to implement a program, and the delegated entity maintains the records for the period identified above or longer, the EPA regional program office may destroy the copies it receives when no longer needed. If recordkeeping requirements (e.g., what records to keep and how long to keep them) for authorized entities are not covered in EPA’s regulations, the requirements should be established in a memorandum of understanding.

Quality assurance records – Quality assurance records for specific projects or research files are to be maintained according to the same disposition instructions as the records they support. Item c covers quality assurance project plans (QAPPs) and quality management plans (QMPs) maintained as a separate collection. Unacceptable draft versions of approved QAPPs and QMPs may be destroyed when no longer needed.

Disaster response records – The Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (the Stafford Act), 42 U.S.C. 5121, et seq., authorizes the President to issue major disaster and emergency declarations. The Agency Records Officer will notify offices if the records are to be maintained as permanent records under item a and will provide additional recordkeeping guidance. Superfund National Priority List (NPL) files for sites affected by a natural catastrophe or emergency should continue to be documented in the appropriate site file covered by schedule 1036.

Original (raw) data and workpapers related to EPA’s scientific research that are used to form the basis for the research conclusions must be retained for the approved retention period for the related research project files to ensure the integrity and defensibility of the research records.

Tissue samples and specimens – Tissue samples and specimens, including wet specimens, samples of test, control, or reference substances, and specially prepared material that are relatively fragile and differ markedly in stability and quality during storage, are to be retained only as long as the quality of the preparation affords evaluation. Specimens obtained from mutagenicity tests, specimens of soil, water, and plants, and wet specimens of blood, urine, feces, biological fluids, do not need to be retained after quality assurance verification. In some research studies involving humans, the agreement with the human subjects requires samples to be destroyed immediately after the analysis and quality assurance verification is complete. In that case, the sample is retained as specified in the agreement. Other tissue samples and specimens are to be retained according to the disposition instructions for item d.

Final manuscripts of articles and other publications are permanent records and covered by item a of schedule 1022. Copies of manuscripts and other publications may be maintained in the related project file and are maintained according to the same disposition instructions as the records they support.

TSCA administrative and tracking control records maintained with the related case files are subject to the same retention as the related files.

Guidance:

Media neutral – This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site [http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html].

Sensitive information - These records may contain sensitive information (e.g., controlled unclassified information (CUI) such as personally identifiable information (PII)) – Records containing CUI must be appropriately managed, safeguarded, and when appropriate, destroyed with caution, for paper records by shredding or pulping and for electronic records deleted at final disposition to protect confidentiality.

Copies of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives - The copy of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives (previously scheduled as EPA 0133a(1)(c), 0134a(1)(c), 0134a(2)(c), 0134a(3)(c), 0206a(3), 0207c(3), 0237a(3), 0399a(3), 0412a(3), 0412c(3), 0412d(3), 0508a(2)(c), 0509a(3), 0686b(2)(c), 0688b(3), 0689a(3), 0689b(3), 0690b(3), 0693b(3), maintained by the submitting office until they are notified by NARA that the transfer is successful is a nonrecord (EPA 0008, item a) and can be deleted when no longer needed.

Delegated programs – If a state or other entity is authorized to implement a program, and the delegated entity maintains the records for the period identified above or longer, the EPA regional office may destroy the copies it receives when no longer needed. If recordkeeping requirements (e.g., what records to keep and how long to keep them) for authorized entities are not covered in EPA’s regulations, the requirements should be established in a memorandum of understanding.

Disposition

- The record copy of NEPA-related records, formerly covered by schedules 134 National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) Preparation Files and 135 309 Review and Comment Files are maintained by OFA at headquarters. Copies maintained by other offices may be destroyed after submission to OFA.
- Landmark cases - Landmark cases are historic, exceptional cases of major, lasting interest at the national or regional level, as well as cases of major precedential significance affecting the legal responsibilities of one or more industrial or commercial sectors across the country. Landmark cases typically involve substantial sustained interest on the part of the public and the media, as well as significant interest on the part of elected officials.
- Civil enforcement action files maintained in EPA regional offices – The regional unit with enforcement authority is responsible for maintaining the record copy and implementing the disposition, including selecting landmark cases for recommendation to the Regional Administrator or the Regional Administrator’s designee. Criminal investigation files – Criminal investigation files are maintained by the Office of Enforcement and Compliance Assurance’s (OECA’s) Criminal Investigation Division. Attorney files pertaining to criminal enforcement matters are held by the assigned attorney’s office (Region or Headquarters). Selecting historically significant (landmark) criminal case files for recommendation to the OECA Assistant Administrator is the responsibility of the Director of the Criminal Investigation Division, Office of Criminal Enforcement, Forensics and Training.
- Copies of these records incorporated into other files (e.g., site or facility files) are to be retained according to the disposition instructions for the records they support.
- In situations where one file (e.g., facility file) contains records covered by more than one records schedule, retain the records for the longest retention period.
- UIC well monitoring reports - UIC Class II, III, and V wells are regulated under solution mining and other permits, including deep and shallow injection wells, pose no threat to human health or the environment. The monitoring reports maintained in the regional offices are used as compliance documents similar to other enforcement programs and are covered by item d.
Field activities

- The EPA QA Field Activities Procedure (CIO 2105-P-02.0) applies to both sampling and non-sampling field activities and provides records management requirements for field activities, including field notebooks. To the extent possible, legacy field notebooks should be reviewed and activities identified to be consistent with the Procedure and local, applicable standard operating procedures.
- EPA's Policy on the Use of Mobile Field Inspection Tools (https://www.epa.gov/compliance/policy-use-mobile-field-inspection-tools) establishes the use of electronic devices to access, create, use, analyze and collect information as part of inspections, field investigations, or compliance evaluations. When using electronic devices, it is very important to demonstrate that there has been no change to the original files, and any edits made to the files must be tracked and retained according to the requirements of this records schedule as stated in section d (Preservation of Records) of the Policy.

File closures

- Compliance files - Close files upon completion of review and determination that no additional investigation is warranted and no enforcement is to be pursued.
- Inspector credentials - Close files when the credential expires.
- Regional administrative and civil or criminal judicial enforcement actions - Enforcement action files maintained in program offices and by case attorneys may be transferred to the federal records center (FRC) upon settlement of the case (issued consent agreements/final orders (CA/FOs), issued administrative orders on consent (AOCs), or entered consent decrees, or similar judicial settlement documents, e.g., Judgments). Compliance and monitoring activities required by the settlement document are considered part of the enforcement action file. Program offices and case attorneys should establish a procedure for determining when the file is to be closed and transferred to the FRC so both sets of records have a consistent disposition. For example: The program office notifies the Office of Regional Counsel (ORC) when the compliance activities for an enforcement action are complete and the case attorney certifies the case is closed or the consent decree is terminated and the final close date. The program office updates the disposition date for records at the FRC, if needed.

Related records - Permits are covered by schedule 1047.

Reasons for Disposition:

The following change was made in the 01/31/2020 version:

- Revised guidance on handling sensitive information to include controlled unclassified information (CUI).

Guidance:

Media neutral – This schedule authorizes the disposition of the record copy in any media (media neutral). However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site [http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html].

Sensitive information - These records may contain sensitive information (e.g., controlled unclassified information (CUI) such as personally identifiable information (PII)) – Records containing CUI must be appropriately managed, safeguarded, and when appropriate, destroyed with caution, for paper records by shredding or pulping and for electronic records deleted at final disposition to protect confidentiality.

Recordkeeping requirements for authorized states – If authorized states maintain disposable records for the retention periods identified above, the program office may decide to review the records in the state offices rather than maintain copies in regional offices and destroy the copies it receives. If recordkeeping requirements (e.g., what records to keep and how long to keep them) for authorized states are not covered in EPA’s regulations, they should be established in a memorandum of understanding or agreement.

Draft permits and working papers – Draft permits and working papers may be destroyed after approval of the final permit.

Notification forms – Notification forms that have been withdrawn or canceled prior to issuance of a permit and TSDs that have not gone through the permitting process are subject to the same retention as the permits. Regional offices may determine the appropriate file closure for notification and other files for which a permit is not issued.

Land disposal permits – If land disposal permits are included or combined with other permits, they may be separated, if practical and volume warrants.

Financial assurance documents – Financial assurance documents are “ability to pay” documents, and negotiable instruments such as letters of credit and other financial assurance mechanisms acceptable to the Agency. Original negotiable instruments must be protected and kept in fireproof, locked containers such as a safe. Copies of the negotiable instruments may not be made in order to maintain the integrity of financial instruments which name EPA as beneficiary.

Related records - Compliance and enforcement records are covered by schedule 1044. Clean Water Act, Section 404 records are covered by EPA 1035. Regional Off-Site Contact (ROC) records related to facilities approved to receive Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA) wastes are covered by schedule 1036.

Copies of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives - The copy of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives (previously scheduled as schedule 0205a(3) and 0478a(3)) maintained by the submitting office until they are notified by NARA that the transfer is successful is a nonrecord (schedule 0008, item a) and can be deleted when no longer needed.
Reasons for Disposition:

However, if the format (e.g., electronic) of permanent records is specified in a records schedule approved by NARA, the records are to be transferred to the National Archives in accordance with NARA standards at the time of transfer. If the record copy is created in electronic format or digitized (e.g., imaged) and maintained electronically (e.g., Data on Aquatic Resources Tracking for Effective Regulation (DARTER) maintained in the Office of Water), the electronic records must be retrievable and usable for as long as needed to conduct Agency business and to meet NARA-approved disposition to comply with 36 CFR Sections 1236.10, 1236.12, 1236.14, and 1236.20. Retention and disposition requirements for the various components of electronic systems (e.g., software, input, output, system documentation) are covered in schedule 1012, Information and Technology Management. In addition to 36 CFR 1236, see “Basic Requirements of an Electronic Recordkeeping System at EPA” on the EPA records intranet site http://intranet.epa.gov/records/tools/erks.html.

Sensitive information - When records are due for destruction according to the disposition instructions, records containing sensitive information (e.g., confidential business information (CBI), personally identifiable information (PII)) must be shredded or otherwise definitively destroyed to protect confidentiality.

Senior officials - Headquarters program and regional offices are responsible for determining who is a senior official in their program or region for recordkeeping purposes. The senior official's role is defined by position and not by the person holding the position. If someone is acting in a senior leader's position, the records are permanent and covered by item a. Examples of senior officials include, but are not limited to:
Headquarters:

- Administrators and Deputy Administrators; Assistant, Deputy Assistants, and Associate Administrators; Chiefs of Staff and Deputy Chiefs of Staff; Environmental Appeals and Administrative Law Judges; General Counsels and Associate General Counsels; Inspectors General and Assistant Inspectors General; Chief Financial Officers and Deputy Chief Financial Officers; Comptrollers and Deputy Comptrollers; and equivalent, including other officials when acting in those capacities.
- Office Directors and Deputy Office Directors, and equivalent, including other officials when acting in those capacities.
- Special Assistants (e.g., Staff Assistants) and Senior Advisors to the previously named officials.

Regions:

- Regional Administrators; Deputy and Assistant Regional Administrators; Regional Counsels and Deputy Regional Counsels; and equivalent, including other officials when acting in those capacities.
- Office Directors and Deputy Office Directors; Division Directors and Deputy Division Directors; and equivalent, including other officials when acting in those capacities.
- Special Assistants (e.g., Staff Assistants) to the previously named officials.

Laboratories:

- Division and Deputy Division Directors, and equivalent, including other officials when acting in those capacities.
- Special Assistants (e.g., Staff Assistants) to the previously named officials.

Calendars

- If the calendar of a senior official is maintained electronically, a copy may be pre-accessioned or transferred to the National Archives earlier (e.g., at the end of each calendar year). If an electronic copy is sent to NARA before the end of the approved retention period, the submitting office is still responsible for maintaining a record copy for the entire approved retention period. See NARA Bulletin 2009-03 Pre-accessioning Permanent Electronic Records for more information.
- Portions of calendars that do not pertain to official Agency business may be personal papers. Personal items may be redacted prior to submittal. For instructions on determining whether a specific item is a record or a personal paper, see Agency and federal guidance. Copies incorporated into other files (e.g., testimony submitted to the Office of Congressional and Intergovernmental Relations (OCIR) covered by schedule 1020) are to be retained according to the disposition instructions for the records they support.
• If the record copy of the calendar is maintained in paper format, the Lotus Notes "calendar list" or the "print detailed agenda calendar" option in Outlook is recommended for printing. Instructions for capturing electronic calendars maintained in Lotus Notes or Outlook and saving them as records in EZ Email can be found at http://intranet.epa.gov/ecms/guides.

Correspondence

• If the record copy of controlled and major correspondence is placed in the Correspondence Management System (CMS), the paper may be destroyed after the completion of quality assurance. Since CMS interfaces with EPA’s electronic recordkeeping system, retention in CMS is managed via the electronic recordkeeping system. CMS is scheduled as EPA 0077.
• For the Office of the Administrator and Deputy Administrator, the interagency correspondence file and environmental multiple letters file are covered by item a. Related electronic indices are to be transferred in accordance with NARA’s requirements for the transfer of electronic records.
• If the official copies of controlled correspondence for senior officials are returned to the originating program office, they should be filed separately and dispositioned according to the instructions in item a.
• If the index for the correspondence is paper, enclose a copy of the index with the correspondence files when the files are retired to the Federal Records Centers (FRCs) or transferred as permanent records to the National Archives.

Program management files – Records maintained by senior officials that document the on-going management of programs and projects that are not deemed to be historically significant are covered by item b. If the records are not listed in the description for item a and there are questions about whether they are historically significant, contact the program or region records liaison officer (RLO) or the National Records Management Program (NRMP) records helpdesk. Contact information can be found on the records website at: http://www.epa.gov/records/contact.htm.

Copies of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives - The copy of permanent electronic records transferred to the National Archives (previously scheduled as schedule 0140a(3), schedule 0141a(3) and schedule 0523a(3)) maintained by the submitting office until they are notified by NARA that the transfer is successful is a nonrecord (schedule 0008, item a) and can be deleted when no longer needed.

Biographical information and portraits- Biographical information and portraits are covered by records schedules for the records they support; e.g., schedule 1022 for news releases, publications, and similar records.

Email messages - Email messages, including senders' and recipients' versions of messages, that meet the definition of federal records and any attachments to the messages are covered by records schedules for the records they support. Emails that are personal and unrelated to EPA business are nonrecords and may be destroyed/deleted immediately by the user. See "Frequent Questions about E-Mail and Records" at: http://www.epa.gov/records/faqs/email.htm.

Speeches, presentations, and testimony - Copies of speeches, presentations, and testimony of senior officials are covered by item a of this schedule. Copies may also be maintained in a related project or subject file and retained according to the disposition instructions for therecords they support.
