LEGAL DISCLAIMER

- EPA cannot comment on the merits of proposed projects or provide information on EPA's funding priorities beyond what has already been posted publicly on our web sites.
- We also want to emphasize that the competitions will be open to all eligible applicants and that our decisions on who receives funding will be based solely on the criteria described in the Notices of Funding Opportunity.
- Our evaluation process is carefully managed to ensure that none of the reviewers have financial, familial or personal relationship conflicts of interest.
- The presence of a representative of a potential applicant on today's panel in the Virtual Open House does not in any way indicate that EPA has determined that their organization will receive funding or is especially well-suited to be a partner in the funding application.
- EPA does not endorse the views, policies or practices of the organizations represented on the panel, does not promote donations or other contributions to the organizations, and also does not endorse the purchase or sale of any services or products mentioned during the panel presentation.
- EPA-funded contracts with consulting firms and other vendors are subject to competition requirements and naming a firm or individual as a partner in applications does not exempt the proposed transaction from these competition requirements.

Panel Discussion

Voyage to Justice: Navigating Equity at America's Ports

Join us for an EPA-led discussion centered on our ports and exploring solutions to the unique challenges faced by those living in and near port communities, including air and water pollution, industrial waste and inadequate infrastructure.
