

THE ADMINISTRATOR

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20460

November 18, 2024

Na'Taki Osborne Jelks, Ph.D.
Chair
National Environmental Justice Advisory Council
West Atlanta Watershed Alliance/Proctor Creek
1441 Richland Road Southwest
Atlanta, Georgia 30310

Dear Dr. Osborne Jelks:

I would like to thank the National Environmental Justice Advisory Council's recent set of cumulative impacts recommendations that echo and amplify the recommendations you made in 2004. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency acknowledges that a great deal of scientific work and understanding has evolved during the past 20 years and welcomes updated perspectives on the subject.

The purpose of cumulative impacts work is to reduce disproportionate environmental, health and social stressors and burdens, and these recommendations will help us reach greater improvements in communities overburdened with environmental health risks.

I have shared this report with Theresa Segovia, principal deputy assistant administrator for the EPA's Office of Environmental Justice and External Civil Rights. Theresa is looking forward to reviewing and discussing the council's recommendations with staff across the agency who are collaborating on cumulative impacts.

I applaud NEJAC's dedication and hard work, and I look forward to future opportunities to work together. In the meantime, please accept my warmest wishes for continued success.

Sincerely yours,

Michael S. Regan

THE ADMINISTRATOR

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20460

November 18, 2024

Mr. Jerome Shabazz
Chair
National Environmental Justice Advisory Council
Overbrook Environmental Education Center
6134 Lancaster Avenue
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19151

Dear Mr. Shabazz:

I would like to thank the National Environmental Justice Advisory Council's recent set of cumulative impacts recommendations that echo and amplify the recommendations you made in 2004. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency acknowledges that a great deal of scientific work and understanding has evolved during the past 20 years and welcomes updated perspectives on the subject.

The purpose of cumulative impacts work is to reduce disproportionate environmental, health and social stressors and burdens, and these recommendations will help us reach greater improvements in communities overburdened with environmental health risks.

I have shared this report with Theresa Segovia, principal deputy assistant administrator for the EPA's Office of Environmental Justice and External Civil Rights. Theresa is looking forward to reviewing and discussing the council's recommendations with staff across the agency who are collaborating on cumulative impacts.

I applaud NEJAC's dedication and hard work, and I look forward to future opportunities to work together. In the meantime, please accept my warmest wishes for continued success.

Sincerely yours,

Michael S. Regan