Ashantae Green

Sustainability Manager, FarmHer & Community Educator
Jacksonville, Florida, United States

Summary

Green Is her Last Name & So is her Life! Ashantae Green, a multi-business owner, politician, and community advocate, currently studies at Yale University and holds degrees and certifications from FSCJ, UF, and LSU.

Dedicated to serving the city, its residents, and the environment, Ashantae has contributed years of service as an elected commissioner of the Duval Soil & Water Conservation District & as a subject matter expert to the Jacksonville City Council and the Mayor's office. Ashantae was recently appointed to a new position as the Sustainability Manager for the City of Jacksonville.

Ashantae boasts over a decade of experience in the construction industry. She has worked with local construction companies and founded A Green Design & Consulting, a firm that works at the intersection of sustainable design and social equity.

Combining her passion for business and community impact, in 2021, Ashantae's family opened Green Legacy Farm and Farmery Bakery & Bodega, to provide farm-to-table catering to all, while improving healthy food access and education in food deserts.

Active in various organizations, Ashantae is a member of the National Organization of Minority Architects (NOMA) Jacksonville Chapter, Jax Chamber, Leadership Jacksonville, Hightower Emerging Leaders Fellowship, & a board member of GreenliningJax and NAACP Jacksonville Environmental & Climate Justice Subcommittee.

Ashantae's work in government, business, and the community has earned her local and national recognition, including the honor of being named a National Women in Green by the USGBC, gracing the cover of Edible Northeast Florida magazine, and receiving two City of Jacksonville Environmental Achievement Awards... all before the age of 30!
